MAJOR WARNER GIVES CONCERT

Son-in-Law to Alfred E. Smith Well Received

Feb. 27 '38 Post

BY WARREN STOREY SMITH

Although it received far less attention than the immediately preceeding concerts by the Boston Symphony orchestra, last evening's concert of the State Symphony Orchestra at Jordan Hall had 10 times the news value. What is a woman conductor assisting at a concert of the Boston Symphony, even though she be the first so to do, in comparison to a superintendent of State police playing a piano concerto?

Major John A. Warner, who last evening played the romantic Concerto of Schumann with Alexander Thiede's orchestra, and played it well, is not only head of the police of New York State, he is president of the International World Police Association and a son-in-law of Alfred E. Smith.

While there was nothing particularly startling or striking about Major Warner's performance of a much-played concerto, that performance was, nevertheless, in no way inadequate. Major Warner has a fluent technique; he commands a beautiful and expressive tone. Many and many a pianist who has devoted his life to the mastery of his instrument could not play this concerto as well as it was played last evening by a man who, of necessity, can give but little attention to music. Major Warner was enthusiastically received, though it is a pity that it was not by a larger audience.

In the first half of the programme two Cambridge composers were featured and, incidentally, contrasted. The first number was Peggy Stuart's "Cracked Ice," a Miniature Rhapsody for Piano and Orchestra, with Miss Stuart at the piano.

The other Cantabrigian represented was Walter Piston, chairman of the division of music at Harvard, whose Prelude and Fugue for orchestra came to a first hearing in Boston. The first criticism of Mr. Piston's composition is that the Prelude is too long and the Fugue too short. The former seems to lack definite direction and abounds in harmonies which set the listener's teeth on edge, the latter, conceived perhaps in the spirit of parody and burlesque, is good humored and exhiliarating. In it the element of dissonance is tonic rather than depressing.

A New Year Greeting

M.304.12

FRIENDS OF THE FEDERAL MUSIC PROJECT:

The past twelve months have been spent in a sincere effort to make the Federal Music Project an increasingly vital part of our community life.

Thousands of worthy children each week are now studying music; each day we find school auditoriums filled with youngsters who are learning to appreciate good music through the medium of our orchestras and bands; and daily, new bookings arrive which point to a time when these organizations will become self-supporting in fact.

We, as musicians, look with gratitude to the Federal Government for its help in the days of need and for the opportunity presented to become even better fitted for our place in society.

We, of the Federal Music Project, are also grateful to our large and enthusiastic public which understands and appreciates the efforts and motives which guide this movement.

May the year to come bring peace of mind and the necessary comforts of life.

Very sincerely yours,

WILLIAM HADDON
State Director

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Sunday evening will be your last opportunity for some time to hear the State Symphony Orchestra under Alexander Thiede's direction at Sanders Theatre, Harvard University. An all American program, featuring the works of three contemporary composers brings to a close the popular series of "national music" concerts that began six weeks ago. Our next series of concerts by the orchestra will open at Jordan Hall, Boston, the end of January. We shall tell you more about this at a later date. Needless to say, Mr. Thiede will present in his Boston series the same high type program arrangements that marked all of the Sanders Theatre concerts. Sunday night's American program will feature the works of Frederick Converse; the lesser known but brilliant New Yorker, Dante Fiorillo, whose Symphony No. 4 will receive its first performance, and the ever popular "Rhapsody in Blue" by the late George Gershwin. Leonard Bernstein, concert pianist and Harvard undergraduate will interpret the Gershwin work. Sunday's concert is an appropriate finale to a successful series. You will not want to miss it. Tickets, as usual are 25 and 40 cents.

When Lois Maier appears with her distinguished husband, Guy, in the State Symphony Orchestra all-Mozart program at Jordan Hall, January 16, it will be something of a homecoming to her, for she received a great part of her musical education at the New England Conservatory of Music. Mr. Maier, himself, is no stranger in Boston for he, too, studied at the Conservatory, later going to Berlin under the tutelage of Arthur Schnabel. Mr. Maier's concert work in the team of "Pattison and Maier" was at the height of its popularity a favorite attraction in Boston's musical life. The Maiers will play, together, the Mozart Double Concerto in E Flat. For his solo, Guy Maier has selected the great composer's "Concerto in E Flat Major". The orchestra's contribution to the program will be the beautiful Symphony in G Minor, played under Mr. Thiede's direction. Prices for this unusual concert are well within the range of every purse. Tickets will go on sale at the Box Office, January 10, at 25, 55, 83 cents and $1.10, tax included.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

While Boston is looking forward to the gala concert presenting Guy and Lois Maier, concert pianists, with the State Symphony Orchestra at Jordan Hall, Sunday, January 16, nearby cities and towns have been planning their own Federal Music attractions. In Quincy, elaborate preparations are under way for a two-day run of "Carmen" in concert form. This program will be sponsored by Wollaston Post, No. 295, the American Legion, which is considered one of the "livest" posts in the State. Never before has this American Legion group sponsored anything as musically ambitious as grand opera. This, alone, is a significant indication of how appropriately Federal Music is finding its place in community life. If you live in the vicinity of Quincy or Wollaston, you should not miss the opportunity to see and hear this company of 180 singers and musicians in such a fine operatic concert. Tickets are obtainable at 25 Beal Street, Wollaston, 2 to 9 P.M. daily. Telephone PREsident 5030. The price is 99 cents.

Apropos of "Carmen"; that opera as the Federal Music Project interprets it is enjoying an unusually busy month. Besides the Quincy performances, the production is to be presented at Norwood Junior High School under auspices of the Norwood Teachers' Association (Jan. 14); Jamaica Plain High School (Jan. 19); Roslindale High School (Jan. 20); Taunton High School, auspices of David F. Adams, Post VFW (Jan. 21); and Brighton High School, (Jan. 26). Jamaica Plain, Roslindale and Brighton High School performances will be in the afternoon for the faculties and student bodies.

The Composers' Forum-Laboratory meeting at the Boston Public Library Lecture Hall, Friday evening, will have as its guest of honor Frederick Shepard Converse, eminent Boston composer whose works will be featured. The popular Forum Trio, and Nellie Zimmer, harpist; Robert Kelly, flutist and Marguerite Porter, soprano will perform several of Mr. Converse's works. This meeting promises to be one of the most interesting of the season. There is no admission charge.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

While Boston music lovers are anticipating the concert appearance of Guy Maier and his wife, Lois, at Jordan Hall, Sunday night, Mr. Maier's visit to Boston had double significance and interest for District Supervisors and conductors of the Federal Music Project. At State Director Haddon's invitation, Mr. Maier has generously agreed to discuss "Music in the Public Schools" at a meeting of District Supervisors and conductors from all over the State at the Project headquarters, Saturday morning. Seldom does any group of music executives have such a splendid opportunity to hear from such an authority as Mr. Maier, the discussion of a subject of vital importance to all musicians and educators. Mr. Maier has, for many years, devoted much of his time to the musical education of children. He is the originator of "Musical Journeys", an informal type of illustrated lecture-concert, depicting through melody and pictures, the composers and music of various countries. These concerts have done much to bring great music within the understanding and appreciation of young people.

Earlier in the season we promised a number of interesting Federal Music events during the new year. An auspicious beginning has been made in presenting Mr. and Mrs. Maier to Boston audience. We plan to follow this concert with others equally brilliant. Keep in mind:

A new series by the State Symphony Orchestra under Alexander Thiede at Jordan Hall, starting January 30.

A two day Washington's Birthday festival, featuring Parker's oratorio "Hora Novissima", conducted by A. Buckingham Simson, at Jordan Hall, February 23, and a triple attraction of the American Folk Singers, Modern Rhythm Ensemble and Madrigal Singers at Faneuil Hall, Boston's great patriotic shrine.

Performance of Bizet's "Carmen" in concert form at the following places: Brighton High School, January 26 at 2.45 P.M.; Quincy High School Auditorium, January 27 and 28 at 8.15; Roxbury Memorial High School for Girls, February 10 at 2.30 P.M.

A performance of the oratorio, "St. Paul" at Boston College, February 3.

Concert by State Symphony Orchestra at Newton High School Auditorium, February 4.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

The State Symphony Orchestra opens its new series of Sunday evening concerts at Jordan Hall, January 30 with a tribute to the memory of Max Bruch, German composer, whose delightful "Concerto in G Minor" is to be played by violin soloist, Harry Ellis Dickson. Bruch was born in Cologne, January 6, 1838--100 years ago almost to the day of next Sunday's concert. Alexander Thiede will conduct the orchestra in Haydn's "Symphony in G Major" and the contemporary Arthur Shepherd's "Horizons". Mr. Shepherd's works are familiar wherever fine music is known and appreciated, but the composer is particularly favored in Boston, where his brilliant career first took form at the New England Conservatory of Music. The new concert series at Jordan Hall marks another milestone in the progress of Federal Music. Seldom have Bostonians had the opportunity to hear such a fine symphony orchestra play six successive concerts in one of the city's major concert halls at the extremely low admission price of 25 and 40 cents.

*****

Apropos of milestones, we approach another shining one in the form of our first out-of-state concert, when the State Symphony is heard at Portland, Maine, next May. Although this important event still is four months away, it is not too distant for the forming of plans and the arrangement of rehearsals. The Portland engagement, a pioneer undertaking in itself, carries the fine reputation of the State Symphony Orchestra beyond the confines of its home state. It begins a new era for our project and opens a wider field of endeavor. Since its inception, the Federal Music Project has never stood still, and such evidences of growth and development speak well for the musical future of the country.

******

Meanwhile, nearer home but quite as interesting is the concert by the State Symphony at Newton High School Auditorium, Friday evening, February 4, under the auspices of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

It is with great pleasure that we are able to announce the appearance of Arthur Shepherd who will come from Cleveland, Ohio to conduct his beautiful composition, "Horizons" at the opening concert of the State Symphony Orchestra series at Jordan Hall Boston, Sunday evening. Mr. Shepherd is very well known to Boston music lovers, for it was at the New England Conservatory of Music that he launched his brilliant career. He studied at the Conservatory and later taught there. For six years, he was Assistant Conductor of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra. At the present time, he is associated with the department of Music, Flora Stone Mather College, Western Reserve University, Cleveland. Of his "Horizons" Mr. Shepherd said: "This work has done more toward bringing me recognition than any of my products, and I have so many personal feelings about a Boston performance".

We are indeed fortunate in having as our guest such a distinguished musician to inaugurate our mid-winter symphony series.

*****

At the bottom of this page, you will notice a courtesy coupon for either Sunday night's concert or that of the following Sunday. We hope that you will be our guest at either of these two concerts, so that you may realize what a splendid musical opportunity we are offering Bostonians in this series of popular priced symphony programs at Jordan Hall. If you are already familiar with the work of the State Symphony Orchestra, consider this ticket our gesture of appreciation for your faithful patronage. If you have never heard the orchestra, then, by all means, take advantage of this opportunity to attend the concert at no cost or obligation. Simply tear off the courtesy coupon, sign your name and address and exchange it at the Jordan Hall box office either Sunday. This free courtesy coupon is to introduce the State Symphony Orchestra to "Federal Music Presentations" readers. The offer expires with this issue and will not be repeated, so take advantage of it now. We hope that you will be present at Jordan Hall, Sunday night.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

On Sunday afternoon, February 27, the Federal Music Project, with the cooperation of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, will inaugurate one of the most unusual series of free concerts ever presented in Boston. Six major oratorios will be performed every other Sunday from the 27th of this month to May 8. A. Buckingham Simson will conduct the 100-voice State Chorus, the Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra and selected soloists.

******

As far as we know, this will be the first series of important oratorios to be offered absolutely free of charge to Boston music lovers. It will give many persons an opportunity to hear, once again, one or two great choral works rarely performed in Boston. Webster defines the word "oratorio" as, "a musical composition having a sacred theme as its subject". This distinctive and inspiring type of concert is popular in the British Isles, where almost every small town and city has its own oratorio society and the love of such choral work is instilled in the people from childhood. In the United States, Boston ranks foremost as an oratorio center, for it was here that the country's first oratorio organization, "The Massachusetts Musical Society" was formed, in 1807, and was the parent of the present familiar "Handel and Haydn Society".

******

The first complete oratorio given in America was Handel's "Messiah" in 1818. It is particularly appropriate that, this great Boston tradition of oratorio should be carried on by the Federal Music Project.

******

Against the beautiful setting of one of America's finest architectural examples, surrounded by treasures from the ends of the earth, you will hear these oratorios:

FEB. 27-Mendelssohn's "HYMN OF PRAISE"
MAR. 13-Haydn's "CREATION"
MAR. 27-Mozart's "REQUIEM"
APR. 10-Gounod's "REDEMPTION"
APR. 24-Mendelssohn's "ELIJAH" Part I
MAY 8-Mendelssohn's "ELIJAH" Part II

******

We continue our series of Symphony concerts by State Symphony Orchestra at Jordan Hall, Boston, Sunday evening at 8.15 P.M. Alexander Thiede will conduct. Guida Blatt, gifted young pianist, will play Beethoven's "Concerto No. 3 in C Minor". Miss Blatt, one of Boston's younger artists, has been pianist for the MacDowell Club and the Society of Arts and Music.

State Symphony Orchestra

As with its predecessors this season, last evening's concert by the State Symphony Orchestra—that Federal Music Project unit so capably directed by Alexander Thiede—proved an interesting one.

Interesting, particularly to Bostonians, was the "Chroma" (subtitled "An American Holiday") by Ary Dulfer, resident violinist. From its title one would gather that Mr. Dulfer thought that he, too, would like to try his hand at one of the expansive musical renderings of the American scene which have been with us for the past few years. The program notes states Mr. Dulfer's intention of "combining forms with relation to color." In this work—a first performance—Mr. Dulfer has used his orchestra in a variety of ways, often with considerable effectiveness.

Mildred Taylor Shaw, a familiar artist to Boston audiences, was heard as soloists in an uncommonly good performance of the Chausson "Poeme." Mrs. Shaw's brought a solid tone of good quality into play—and further combined this primary virtue with keen musicianship and a feeling for the matter of the piece.

With the playing of the 4th, another Tchaikovsky Symphony was added to this series. Here the performance was somewhat uneven. Many portions were played excellently—then there were interludes where passing lapses and infirmities on the part of the players were unhappily reflected in the progress of the Symphony. Mr. Thiede manfully refrained from falling into sentimentalism—which considering his orchestra, and its scope, was a sage course.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

A man who has acquired an international reputation in two fields as separate from each other as the poles is indeed a distinctive personality. Such a man is Major John A. Warner, accomplished concert pianist and noted criminologist, president of the International World Police, head of the New York State Police. The Federal Music Project will present Major Warner as guest soloist with the State Symphony Orchestra in its Jordan Hall concert, Sunday evening February 20. He will play the beautiful Schumann A Minor Concerto. Major Warner has had music at his finger tips since childhood. He was only four when he began to play piano by ear, and gave a creditable performance. At 16, he was organist of Christ Episcopal Church in his native Rochester, New York. When he entered Harvard, he found time to study piano under Carlo Buonomici and organ with Wallace Goodrich of Boston. Graduating from Harvard in 1909, Major Warner continued his musical studies in Italy, and later under the eminent Godowski in Austria and Belgium, until interrupted by the outbreak of the World War. Determined to make music his career, Major Warner continued his studies after the Armistice. Through Colonel George F. Chandler, then head of the New York State Police, Major Warner was appointed second in command of the State Police at Batavia, New York. Later he was transferred to White Plains. In 1923, he was appointed Superintendent of the State Police. In 1934, his reputation in this field received world-wide recognition when he was elected president of the International World Police. Not once in his busy career has Major Warner lost sight of his first love--music. Despite the pressure of duties and the responsibilities his office entails, he has continued his musical pursuits. In 1926, he married the former Emily Smith, daughter of erstwhile Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York.

The Warners have two young daughters and a home in Albany where gather from time to time the colorful figures of the world of music, such as Harold Bauer, Myra Hess, Marguerite D'Alvarez and the host of artists that Major and Mrs. Warner number among their friends.

******

The February 20 concert will also feature the appearance of Miss Peggy Stuart brilliant young Boston composer-pianist who will play her own composition, "Cracked Ice A Miniature Rhapsody". This delightful piece will have orchestral accompaniment arranged by the eminent Ferde Grofe who wrote the popular "Mississippi Suite" and other typical American works. "Cracked Ice" was specially composed for the Ice Carnival of the Boston and Cambridge Skating Clubs of which Miss Stuart is a very active member. This charming young Cambridge debutante, Junior Leaguer and Vincent Club member is not content to rest upon her laurels as a pianist and composer, but gleans further honors as a figure skater and painter of pastel miniatures. Miss Stuart has composed the music for the last four productions of the Vincent Club and has been soloist with the Boston Symphony in its "Pops" concerts.

******

This Sunday's Jordan Hall concert will feature the first Boston performance of "Chroma" by Ary Dulfer, a Boston composer and native of Rotterdam, Holland. Mr. Dulfer was formerly concert master of the Berlin Opera House Orchestra and Helsingfors Symphony of Norway. The guest soloist will be Boston's foremost woman violinist, Mildred Taylor Shaw, who will play Chausson's "Poeme for Violin and Orchestra". Mr. Thiede will conduct the orchestra in Tschaikowsky's Fourth Symphony, considered by many critics the beginning of the best of the composer's six symphonies.

MAJOR JOHN A. WARNER

Superintendent of New York State Police
and Gifted Concert Pianist

Born at Rochester, the son of J. Foster Warner, an architect. He was graduated from Harvard in 1909. When Colonel George F. Chandler, a Kingston Surgeon, was made head of the New York State Police, he appointed Warner, then a member of the First Cavalry New York National Guard in Rochester to be second in command of the State Police at Batavia. Later he was transferred to Captain of Troop K at White Plains. In 1923, he became Superintendent of the New York State Police and at the same time won a commission as Major in the Officer's Reserve Corps. In December 1934, Major Warner was elected President of the International World Police. In May 1935, he set up the Bureau of Criminal Investigation of the Division of State Police.

In 1934, Major Warner was appointed one of the three members of the State Traffic Commission which was organized September 1, 1936.

On June 5, 1926, Major Warner married Emily Smith, daughter of Former Governor, Alfred E. Smith, in the cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, Albany. Cardinal Hayes officiated at the ceremony. Major Warner and Mrs. Warner have two children Mary Adams Warner and Emily Smith Warner.

When a child, John A. Warner undertook to play piano by ear and was giving creditable performances with both tiny hands at four years of age. When he became sixteen, John Warner found himself organist of Christ Church, the largest Episcopal Church in Rochester, of which Dean Carver, formerly of Albany is now rector.

At Harvard, the young musician found a little time for study with Carlo Buonomici at the piano and with Wallace Goodrich, head of the New England Conservatory at the organ.

It was in the summer of his freshman year that John A. Warner really began the serious study of music. He passed six weeks at Badia A. Prataglia, a small village near Florence, Italy, under the instruction of Guiseppe Buonomici, father of his Boston teacher, and himself a pupil of both Liszt and Von Bulow.

More study under the elder Buonomici in Italy followed Major Warnerls departure from College in 1909. After three months, he journeyed to Paris for the tontacts with Bauer, Widor and De Pachmann mentioned above.

In the summer of 1913, Major Warner placed himself under Godowsky at Igls, near Innsbruck in the Austrian Tyrol. He did the same in 1914 at Ostend but that summer's course was swiftly ended by the call to arms and immediate engulfing of Belgium by the gray-clad horde of the Kaiser.

Whether active personally or not, Major Warner has maintained a deep interest in the art. Frequent informal musicales have attracted a large musical circle to the Warner home in Albany where Myra Hess, Harold Bauer. The Hart House String Quartette, Paul Kochanski and Margaret d'Alverez have been heard.

Major Warner attributes his ability to play after long intervals without practice to the method he acquired while under Godowsky's instruction - absolute relaxation of the muscles while manipulating the fingers.

Major Warner is at present studying with David Sperten, son-in-law of Leopold Godowsky.

Among the most treasured possessions of Major Warner, is a portrait of Charles Marie Widor, Dean of French musicians and organist for years of St. Suplice, the premier organ position in the world. On it is inscribed in the aged master's own hand: "A son frere". In all his long life, Charles Marie Widor had never done such a thing for a pupil before and has never done it since. During that memorable period of s study under Widor, Major Warner also studied piano with Harold Bauer and later had a few lessons in Chopin with the master interpreter of that composer's work. Vladimir De Pachmann.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Among the most treasured possessions of Major John A. Warner, whom you will hear as one of the guest pianists with the State Symphony Orchestra at Jordan Hall, Sunday night is a portrait of Charles Marie Widor, dean of French musicians, and for years organist at the famous church of St. Sulpice. Major Warner studied with this venerable master, and on the portrait is inscribed, "A son frere". The talented American was the only pupil Widor ever complimented in such manner. So intensely interested was Major Warner in music that he spent many years pursuing the various phases of the art though their respective channels. Thus he engaged in special piano study under Carlo Buonomici of Boston, and later with Buonomici's father, who was an exponent of the great Liszt; still later with Harold Bauer, organ with Wallace Goodrich, and the technique of Chopin under that composer's master interpreter, Vladimir DePachmann.

A number of well-known figures in Massachusetts' criminological field will be among the guests at Major Warner's performance. These include Police Commissioner Joseph Timilty; Judge Paul Kirk, Metropolitan District Commissioner, Eugene Hultman; Captain Charles Van Amburger, ballistics expert and Sergeants Warren Toelker and Joseph Crescio of the Massachusetts State Police. Major Warner's rank as Superintendent of the New York State Police and President of the International World Police has not interfered with his musical career, and in this fact he is an interesting and colorful personality.

Mrs. Horatio W. Parker, of New York, widow of the late composer of "Hora Novissima" will be guest of honor when the Federal Music Project presents the oratorio with Mabel Daniels' "Exultate Deo" at Jordan Hall, Wednesday evening. A. Buckingham Simson will conduct.

MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS

"The Hymn of Praise"

2/28/35

An audience of about 300 persons at the Museum of Fine Arts yesterday afternoon heard the State Chorus and the Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra, A. Buckingham Simson directing, in Mendelssohn's oratorio, "The Hymn of Praise." This was the first of a series of choral programs, chiefly oratorio, to be presented at the Museum on alternate Sunday afternoons, through May 8, by the Federal Music project.

On the whole, "The Hymn of Praise" was effectively presented. Soloists, chorus and orchestra, under the able leadership of Mr. Simpson, performed their work with admirable attention to precision in tempo, clear diction, careful phrasing and resonant tonal quality. Some choral passages however, did not measure up to the general standard; this was particularly noticeable in "The Night Is Departing." The tempo set for this number seemed a bit too fast to be sung easily. Then too, the orchestra so predominated that the singers' voices produced a slightly blurred effect. But the two subsequent choral offerings, "Let All Men Praise the Lord," and "Ye Nations Offer to the Lord," were sung with dispatch and with conscientious attention to colorful passages. The mezzo voce effect in the last measures of "Let All Men Praise the Lord" was produced in a good finished style.

Perhaps one of the most familiar of the sacred duets with chorus, "I Waited For the Lord," is from this oratorio. Miss Blanche Haskell, soprano, carried her part beautifully. Her singing throughout, in fact, predominated. Her vocal qualities, strong and full, and her easy style of singing, are particularly suited to oratorio work. Miss Etta Bradley, the mezzo-soprano, did not have much solo work and in the duet with Miss Haskell her voice did not equal the soprano's. As a result their duo-passages were largely one sided. Mr. Bruce Norman sang agreeably, particularly the two tenor arias, "The Sorrows of Death" and "My Song Shall Be Always Thy Mercy."

The next concert by the State Chorus and the Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra, on March 13, is "Creation," the oratorio by Josef Haydn.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Fritz Fall, Viennese guest conductor, and Wolfgang Rebner, guest pianist who will appear with the State Symphony Orchestra at Jordan Hall, Sunday night will be honored at a reception and musicale given by the Boston Chapter of the Salzburg Society at Boston University College of Music, Saturday night. The reception will serve as a pleasant reunion for Mr. Fall and the Boston Chapter's young president, Miss Artiss DeVolt, harpist. Both were colleagues at the famous Mozarteum in Salzburg. This is Mr. Fall's first visit to Boston, and it is particularly interesting that he should find old friends and associations of faraway Salzburg.

Just a reminder: The first of a series of free oratorios sponsored by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and presented by the Federal Music Project opens at the Museum, Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" will be sung by Blanche Haskell Etta Bradley and Bruce Norman, with the State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra under the direction of A. Buckingham Simson.

On Sunday evening (March 6) we bring to a close our present series of concerts by the State Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Alexander Thiede at Jordan Hall. A nineteen year old Philadelphia 'cellist with the illustrious name of Samuel Houston Mayes will be our guest soloist. The orchestra is making elaborate preparations for its debut at Portland, Maine on May 11, when it will join with the Immaculate Conception Cathedral Boys' Choir in a concert sponsored by the Knights of Columbus. The Portland concert will be the first time a Massachusetts Federal Music Project unit has left its home state and the move is a significant indication of steady progress.

******

With the sombre season of Lent, but a few days away, the Federal Music Project is prepared to present a number of sacred concerts. Notable will be the performance of Mozart's "Requiem" with symphony selections from"The Hymn of Praise" by the State Chorus, Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra and selected soloists under the direction of Mr. Simson at Phillips Academy, Andover on Ash Wednesday (March 2).

DO YOU KNOW THAT

We bring another successful series of concerts to a close at Jordan Hall Sunday evening, when the State Symphony Orchestra under the baton of its regular conductor, Alexander Thiede presents a program featuring as guest soloist, Samuel H. Mayes, 19-year old 'cellist of the Philadelphia Orchestra. Young Mr. Mayes is another brilliant personality which the Federal Music Project has brought to Boston audiences during the past year. He is a native of St. Louis and at the age of ten, when other little boys were engrossed in marbles and bicycles, he astounded concert goers by his solo performance with the St. Louis Symphony.

******

With such an auspicious debut, it is not surprising, then, that young Mr. Mayes, whose full name, incidentally is that of the "Saviour of Texas", Samuel Houston, should firmly grasp all the musical honors that came his way. He was awarded a scholarship at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia, where he studied under Felix Salmond. Upon his graduation last year, young Mayes immediately joined the Philadelphia Orchestra and now has the distinction of being the country's youngest member of a major symphony orchestra. Aside from his musical talents, Mr. Mayes has further distinction. He claims kinship with the late Will Rogers, and a distinct strain of Cherokee Indian.

Despite his success which has come to him in his short life, the young 'cellist is a modest, unassuming boy, seriously intent on his music, earnestly ambitious for a career. Sunday night he will play Haydn's Concerto in D Major for Violoncello and Orchestra. Mr. Thiede will conduct the musicians in a performance of "Pilgrim Symphony" by Paul Hastings Allen, well-known Brookline composer and Liszt's Symphonic Poem, "Les Preludes".

******

Our opening oratorio performance at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts last Sunday was warmly received by music lovers and the press. The Boston Globe wrote:

"'The Hymn of Praise' was effectively presented. Soloists, chorus and orchestra under the able leadership of Mr. Simson performed their work with admirable attention to precision in tempo, clear diction, careful phrasing and resonant tonal quality."

There will be five more oratorio presentations at the Museum during the coming Spring season. All are free to the public. We shall present Haydn's "Creation" Sunday afternoon, March 13. Why not make the Art Museum your twice monthly Sunday afternoon diversion. Visit the galleries. Hear the oratorio.

STATE CHORUS COMMONWEALTH SYMPHONY

The State Chorus and the Commonwealth Symphony orchestra, A. Buckingham Simson conducting, presented the second in a series of oratorios yesterday afternoon at the Museum of Fine Arts. The oratorio was "The Creation" by Haydn, and the soloists were as follows: Joan Ruth, soprano; George Wheeler, tenor, and Melvin Crowell, baritone. The concert was under the auspices of the federal music project.

A large number of people gathered yesterday afternoon to hear this seldom performed oratorio. It is to the credit of the federal music project that these works are being presented to the public. Mr. Simson again proved that he is a capable conductor of vocal music, for the chorus sang well, enunciated clearly and did not indulge in too much ponderous singing (although this last occasionally was apparent). In fact, the chorus is steadily improving and now is a competent body of singers. If the orchestra could pay as much attention to the conductor and lag less frequently we would have here a fine combination. One rather annoying habit—of which not only Mr. Simson is guilty—is the introducing of an accelerando at the end of a movement. In as far as this indicates a desire not to indulge in a weighty retard it is healthy, but at times this idea leans over backward in an attempt to keep strict rhythm at a close and makes it unduly hurried. And considering this habit it is not consistent to make such long retards at the ends of slow movements. Otherwise Mr. Simson's tempos were good, and the spirit of the performance fine.

The soloists were adequate for the performance and Mr. Wheeler's conscientious work should be mentioned. The audience was very enthusiastic and showed it by applauding, unfortunately, after every number, no matter how short. We are indebted for the opportunity of hearing this seldom performed oratorio. The next oratorio in this series will be Mozart's Requiem, which will be performed on March 27th.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Research into half forgotten rare manuscripts resulted in bringing to light three old French ballads, which were arranged and copied in the Federal Music Project library, and will be sung by the Madrigals in their concert of 16th century music at Steinert Hall, Tuesday night. The songs by Claude LeJeune, Charles Tessier and Clement Jannequin are not to be found in any modern edition of French songs. Quaint in their old idiom, the three compositions are a valuable contribution to that historical period when madrigals, bergerettes and other simple melodies were at the height of their popularity.

******

It may be said that the 16th century saw the revival of the art of madrigal singing after a lapse of about 100 years. The art flourished in the 14th century, faded in the 15th, was revived in the 16th, swept to great popularity during the 17th and then underwent another decline in the 18th century. An earnest effort has been made during this, the 20th century to restore this old time musical art to its former place. The Federal Music Projects throughout the country have done much to familiarize modern audiences with madrigal singing, and the Massachusetts Project has contributed largely to this effort.

******

Earl Weidner, who conducts the Boston Madrigal Singers for Federal Music has arranged an extremely interesting and typical 16th century program for Tuesday night. The delicate madrigals of the English masters, Greaves, Purcell, Dowland, Farmer and Vautor will contrast with the Italian works of Monteverdi, one of the greatest madrigal writers of his day. Sixteenth century sacred songs by Jacob Handl and other contemporaries, and two German secular songs by Haydn will be included in the program. Students and teachers will not want to miss this concert. The moderate price of 25 cents brings it within the reach of nearly everyone.

******

Another two weeks have rolled by and the second of the series of oratorios will be presented by the Federal Music Project at the Museum of Fine Arts, Sunday afternoon (March 13) at 2.30 o'clock. A. Buckingham Simson will conduct the State Chorus, Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra in Haydn's "Creation". Miss Joan Ruth, well-known Federal Music Project soloist, will sing the soprano role, with George Wheeler, tenor and Melvin Crowell, baritone. This concert which takes place in the Museum's tapestry gallery is open to the public, free of charge. On March 27, Mozart's "Requiem" will be presented.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

During the Lenten season, when much of the city's social activity retards, an opportunity to hear a sacred oratorio is usually welcome. The Federal Music Project under the sponsorship of the Boston College Musical Clubs will open its series of three oratorio performances with Haydn's "Creation" at the College auditorium next Thursday afternoon (March 24), at 2.30 o'clock. A. Buckingham Simson will conduct the State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra in the work. Miss Joan Ruth George Wheeler and Melvin Crowell will be soloists.

******

Included in this interesting series are Gounod's "Redemption" on March 31, and Dvorak's "Stabat Mater" on April 13. So that every music lover may hear these fine Lenten concerts, the price of tickets has been brought within the range of all. They are only 25 and 40 cents and may be obtained at the College, either in advance or on the day of the concert. Oratorio in most cases "grows" on one. The more it is heard the better it is liked. If you had the opportunity to hear "Creation" at the Art Museum a few weeks ago, why not plan to hear it again? A second or third hearing will reveal greater beauty, in this impressive work.

A number of followers of Federal Music have inquired as to the possibility of more concerts by the State Symphony Orchestra, now that the Jordan Hall series has ended. We are happy to announce that Mr. Thiede and the Orchestra will return to Sanders Theatre, Harvard University for three Spring concerts, the first of which will take place, Tuesday evening, March 29. Others will follow on April 12 and 26. The Orchestra will appear at the Memorial Auditorium, Plymouth on April 21.

******

Sunday afternoon(March 20) residents of Brockton, Abington and surrounding communities may attend the concert performance of Bizet's opera "Carmen" at the High School auditorium, Abington. This splendid entertainment comprising a company of nearly 200 singers, musicians and soloists is spronsored by the Lewis V. Dorsey Post, No. 112, The American Legion. Tickets are 35, 55 and 75 cents and may be purchased at the Bemis Drug Stores in Abington, North Abington and Rockland; B. F. Farnham Company, West Abington and Johnson's Drug Store, Whitman.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

The first of our series of Spring concerts by the State Symphony Orchestra at Sanders Theatre, Harvard University next Tuesday night will prove unusually interesting to music lovers, as it will introduce to the Boston and Cambridge audiences for the first time, the "Symphony No. 2 in A Major" by the noted contemporary composer, Daniel Gregory Mason. The extremely modern "Concerto in D Major" by Serge Prokofieff, who incidentally was a Boston visitor this week, will be played by the youthful violinist, Raphael Silverman, Dartmouth '36, and now of the Harvard Graduate School. Mr. Silverman is particularly adept at interpreting the work of the brilliant Russian, for some of his studies were completed in Leningrad. Young Silverman also studied in Berlin, and is the winner of a Curtis Institute of Music award. He is the son of Professor Louis Silverman of Dartmouth.

******

In presenting Mr. Mason's Symphony for the first time, the State Orchestra under Mr. Thiede's direction features a work of a composer particularly favored in this part of the country, for Mr. Mason was born in Brookline and educated at Harvard. Since 1910, he has been a member of the staff of the Music Department at Columbia University. Besides a great deal of fine music, Mr. Mason has written a number of books on music and composers. Tuesday night's program will also include John Knowles Paine's Prelude to "Oedipus Tyrannus".

******

You'll find no better way to spend Sunday afternoon than at the Museum of Fine Arts this week (the 27th) when Mr. A. Buckingham Simson, the State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra present Mozart's beautiful "Requiem" at 2.30 o'clock. The last program two weeks ago was so well attended that Museum officials plan to install amplification, so that the oratorios may be heard by those not fortunate to secure a place of advantage in the tapestry gallery and rotunda. The concert starts at 2.30 o'clock and of course, is free of charge.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Friends of the Federal Music Project will be interested in the following editorial from the Boston Globe of March 29, 1938. It speaks for itself:

A SPLENDID RECORD

"One of the first casualties to the depression five years ago, was music. In towns and villages innumerable throughout the country, it fell from the school curriculum, and, in too many instances it remained out.

"That this was a serious misfortune to education few will deny; and that the hiatus left by dropping of music should be filled, and, indeed has been to a notable extent, reinforces the truth of that contention. The part played by the Federal Music Project in this rescue of music for school children cannot be overemphasized.

"According to the records, 608 concerts have been given before 310,025 school children and teachers in this state by the project since last September. This represents an increase both in the number of concerts and in the total auditors of nearly 100 per cent in a single year.

The late President Eliot of Harvard, during his last years, placed music and drawing among the most important essentials for genuine education in the schools. The entire community owes a debt of gratitude to the Federal Music Project for sustaining that idea during times of difficulty".

Coming events cast their shadows before:

A most appropriate way of observing Holy Week and pre-Easter ceremonies would be to hear the Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra, State Chorus and Soloists under A. Buckingham Simson's direction present Arton Dvorak's "Stabat Mater" at Boston College Auditorium, Wednesday afternoon, April 13 at 1.00 o'clock. Tickets 25 and 40 cents.

****

The ever popular "Carmen" at Turn Hall, Lawrence, sponsored by the Turne Vercin of that city Sunday evening (April 3) at 8.15. Tickets 40, 75 and 99 cents.

****

Student-composers' night at the monthly Composers' Forum-Laboratory meeting at the Public Library Lecture Hall, Friday evening (April 8) at 8.15. Here's a fine opportunity to observe what the masters of tomorrow's music are thinking about today. Representative composers from the student body of Boston University, Tufts College and the New England Conservatory will be guests of honor. Admission is free.

****

Part One of Gounod's "Redemption" at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, Sunday afternoon, April 10 at 2.30 o'clock. We have reached the half way mark in our series of sacred oratorios at the Museum and they have become so popular that amplification has been installed so that all may hear and enjoy the concerts. Admission is free.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

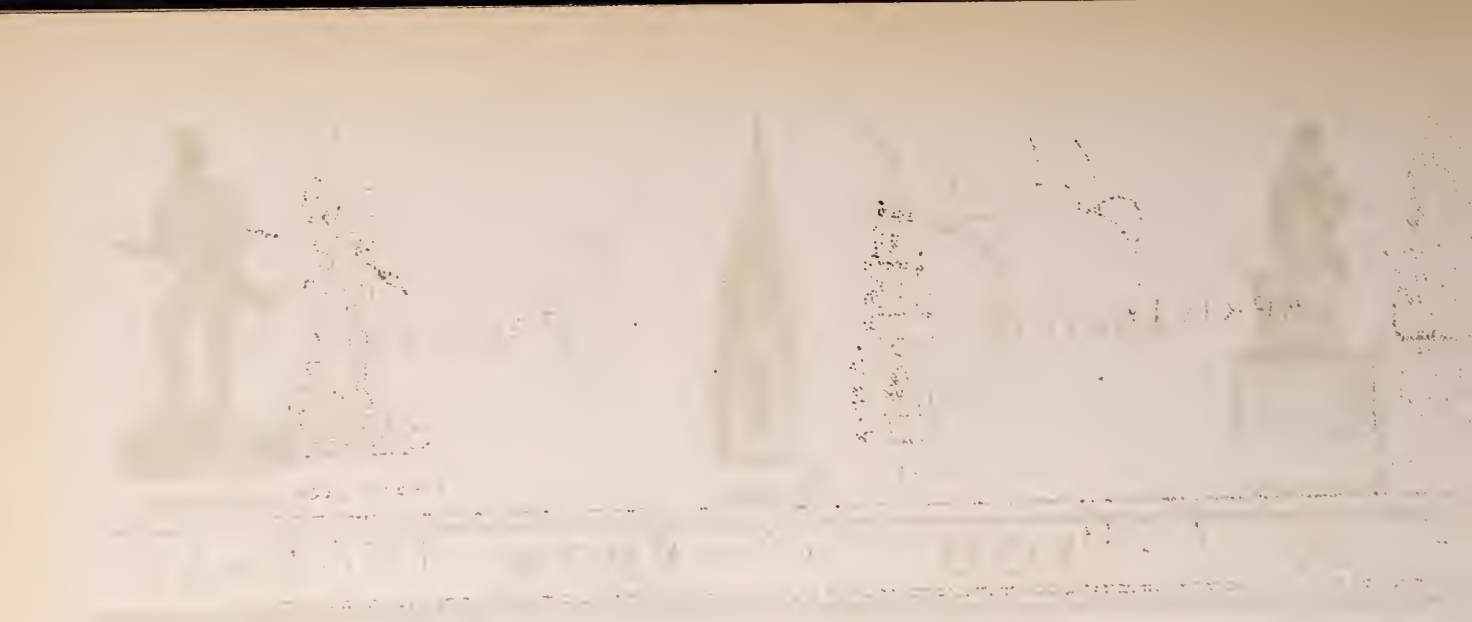

The annual Easter Monday show of Amesbury Council No. 250, Knights of Columbus this year will be a distinct departure from tradition, for instead of the usual musical comedy or play, the Council will sponsor the Federal Music Project's English concert production of "Carmen". It will be the first opera this Amesbury organization has ever undertaken, and it has aroused much interest throughout the town and its vicinity. To further enhance the production, Bruce Norman, a "native son" will sing the leading male role of Don Jose. Mr. Norman has appeared in many of the leading opera houses of this country and Europe, but he admits to no greater thrill than that of singing the colorful role of the hapless Spanish swain for an audience composed of his own townspeople. Thelma Jo Fisher will sing the title role. The concert takes place in the Town Hall at 8.15.

In keeping with the Easter season the Federal Music Project and the Museum of Fine Arts will present Parts II and III of Gounod's "Redemption" in the Tapestry Gallery of the Museum next Sunday (April 24). Part I of this impressive oratorio was sung before a capacity audience last Sunday. A. Buckingham Simson, conductor, the State Chorus, the Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra and selected soloists now are familiar to the host of Sunday visitors to the Museum, for since February 27, every second Sunday has been featured by an oratorio performance in the Tapestry room. The final concert will be a performance of Mendelssohn's "Elijah" on Sunday afternoon, May 8. These oratorios are offered to the public, free of charge, and provide a splendid opportunity for the music lover to hear a form of dramatic music not frequently presented in Boston.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Tuesday evening brings to a close the State Symphony Orchestra's series of concerts at Sanders Theatre, Harvard University. These concerts have featured the works of composers identified with Harvard and it is interesting to note that the final program includes a composition, "Suite for Orchestra" by Professor Walter Piston, one of the most active and familiar of Harvard's contemporary composers. Professor Piston, popular with all students of both Harvard and Radcliffe is also an outstanding figure in Boston's musical life. His works have been played by the Boston Symphony on numerous occasions, and the State Symphony has had the honor of performing the world premier of Professor Piston's "Prelude and Fugue". The final Sanders concert introduces to local audiences for the first time, Aaron Copland's "Dance Symphony".

****

Mr. Copland is a contemporary composer only 38 years old, yet with a distinguished musical background that is the envy of writers many years his senior. Born in Brooklyn, New York, Mr. Copland studied under Ruben Goldmark at the Fontainbleau School of Music, and later with the eminent Nadia Boulanger, recently in Boston as the first woman to conduct the Boston Symphony. Mr. Copland is a lecturer on modern music at the New School for Social Research, New York. Among Mr. Copland's many compositions are "Grotto", a ballet; a Symphony; "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra" and "Symphonic Ode".

****

The final Sanders concert also includes as guest soloist, Karl Zeise, 'cellist, who will play Anton Dvorak's "Concerto in B minor for 'Cello and Orchestra". There will be no advance in prices. Tickets 25 and 40 cents, obtainable at the Theatre.

****

Parts Two and Three of Gounod's "Redemption" will be presented by the Federal Music Project's oratorio group under the direction of A. Buckingham Simson in the Tapestry Gallery of the Museum of Fine Arts, Sunday afternoon (April 24) at 2.30 o'clock. On Sunday May 8, this splendid oratorio series that began in February will be brought to a close with a performance of Part One of Mendelssohn's "Elijah". The increasing attendance at these bi-monthly free concerts is significant indication that Boston music lovers entertain a lively interest in what some critics have termed the "forgotten art of oratorio". The final parts of "Redemption" relate, in musical form, the succession of events commemorated during the Easter season. The work is particularly appropriate to this time of the year.

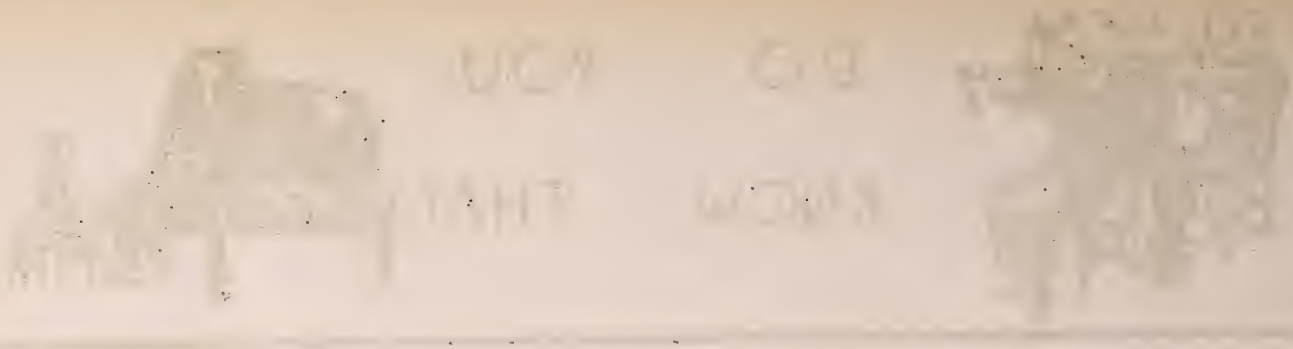

****

The smiling Ray Starita, internationally known saxophonist who presided over Federal Music's Saxophone Sextet has left us to join a famous radio and dance band. His place with the sextet will be taken by the equally well-known Perley Stevens who for many seasons has been prominent among Boston's night club musicians. Mr. Stevens' first appearance with the Sextet will be at the combined concert of the Essex County Symphony Orchestra, under the sponsorship of the Workman's Circle Hebrew School at the Classical High School Auditorium, Lynn, Tuesday evening, April 26, at 8.15 P.M.

****

May Day will be celebrated with song, as far as the Federal Music Project is concerned. The American Folk Singers, unusual negro choir under Thomas Johnson's direction will be heard at the Massachusetts Avenue Baptist Church, Cambridge at 3.30 P.M. Tickets are 25 and 40 cents.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

The State Symphony Orchestra, heard usually in admission fee concerts only, will join with the Somerville High School Chorus in a program dedicated to the memory of the late Dr. Henry K. Hadley, eminent American composer and conductor, at Somerville High School Auditorium, Monday evening (May 2). Somerville is proud of the fact that this illustrious musician, whose death last year robbed the music world of a brilliant personality, was a native of Somerville. Alexander Thiede will conduct the orchestra in an all-Hadley program. The Chorus is under the direction of Bart Grady, Supervisor of Music in Somerville's public schools. A highlight of the affair will be the presentation of a memorial plaque to the late composer's mother. Mayor John M. Lynch of Somerville will make the presentation. The exercises are open to the public, without charge. Here is an excellent opportunity for everyone, especially Somerville residents, to hear a program of great symphonic music by a full symphony orchestra, and well trained chorus, and at the same time pay tribute to the memory of a gifted American composer.

****

The Massachusetts State Music Festival will be opened in Greenfield on May 13 with a concert by Springfield Civic Orchestra under the baton of Milton Aronson. This concert is sponsored by the Greenfield High School.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

A treat for music loving mothers on Mothers' Day, Sunday, would be a visit to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, where the final oratorio concert of the season will be presented by the Federal Music Project. The work to be performed is Mendelssohn's "Elijah". A. Buckingham Simson will conduct the State Chorus, Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra and ten selected soloists. Admission is free, and the concert is only one hour long, so that there will be plenty of time to visit the various galleries in the Museum, after the program, which begins at 2.30.

The Composers' Forum-Laboratory, which since last October has enjoyed a successful season under the supervision of Dean Winslow Hanscom, will present its final concert-meeting of the year at the Boston Public Library Lecture Hall, Friday evening at 8.15 promptly. This will be a gala meeting presenting four composers, not the least of whom is William Haddon, State Director of the Federal Music Project. Followers of Project activities may be surprised to know that the busy gentleman who directs the destiny of government music in this State has found time and energy to turn his thoughts toward composition. "Wander-Thirst" and "Blow, Bugle, Blow" are the two works by Mr. Haddon that will be sung by the newly organized Boston Civic Chorus, under Mr. Hanscom's direction.

A String Quartet by William Cameron White, gifted negro composer of Boston will also be featured on the Composers' Forum-Laboratory program by the Forum String Quartet. Another String Quartet by 23-year old Theodore Clark Pierce, remembered for his appearances as guest soloist at several Federal Music concerts, and two compositions by David Ludlow Stackhouse will complete this interesting concert, which is open to the public free of charge.

On Tuesday evening, May 17, students of art, music and literature, especially those interested in the early French school will have an unusual opportunity to hear the Madrigal Singers combined with a lecture by M. Marcel Francon, Instructor and Tutor in the Romance Languages Department at Harvard, at Paine Hall, Harvard College, M.Francon's subject will be "Music and Poetry in the French Renaissance". The singers under the direction of Earl Weidner will include a group of rare French madrigals, that were brought to light through recent research, and which never have been included in standard library editions. These old madrigals were transcribed from their original form by Federal Music copyists. This Paine Hall concert features a very low admission price of 25 cents, thus enabling every high school and college student to take advantage of a splendid opportunity to hear not only an entertaining concert, but also an interesting, instructive lecture by a recognized authority.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Bergerettes and chansonettes, the dainty old-fashioned ballads of poetic France may be placed in the Madrigal class, for in theme they are not unlike the English romance ballad that enjoyed such a wave of popularity during the 15th and 16th centuries. The music and poetry of the French Renaissance is full of interest to students and teachers, but even if you do not classify yourself among scholars, you will enjoy M. Marcel Francon's lecture, which will be given in conjunction with a program of old French ballads by the Madrigal Singers at Paine Hall, Harvard, Tuesday evening, Earl Weidner will conduct, and, as we told you last week, M. Francon, who is an instructor in the Romance Languages Department at Harvard will talk about 15th century poetry and music of his native France. The little known ballads of Jannequin, DeLasses, Costeley, DeBertrand, LeJeune and Mauduit, all in their original quaint archaic language will be sung by the group. Admission to this interesting concert-lecture is only 25 cents. Tickets obtainable at the door.

On Sunday evening, May 22, the two new additions to the Federal Music operatic repertoire, Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" and Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be given their initial performance by the State Chorus, Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra and soloists at Watertown High School auditorium. The concert is sponsored by the Italian-American Independent Club of Watertown. Although "Pagliacci" was presented in its usual operatic form by the Federal Music Project at the Boston Opera House more than 15 months ago, it has never been given in concert form by this group. A. Buckingham Simson will conduct the concert. The title role in "Pagliacci" will be sung by Bruce Norman well known to Federal Music audiences for his excellent interpretation of "Don Jose" in "Carmen". The leading role of "Santuzza" in "Cavalleria" will be sung by Joan Ruth the popular little "Micaela" of "Carmen". Midhat Serbagi, Arabian tenor, who played the role of "Pinkerton" in Madame Butterfly" will sing "Turiddu" in the Mascagni opera.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Straw hats to the contrary, Boston's best harbinger of the "good old summertime" is the daily band concert on Boston Common. This year the season opens Sunday evening (May 22) at the Parkman Bandstand when the popular veteran conductor, William A. Barrington-Sargent leads the Federal Music Commonwealth Band in the first program at 6.30 o'clock. Appropriately enough the program begins with the stirring march. "We Meet Again". an original composition by bandmaster Sargent. Bostonians and the Federal Music bands have been meeting for pleasant musical interludes at this historical spot every summer for four years now, and have made a host of friends, not only among residents but among the hordes of out-of-town visitors who flock to Boston every year. This season's concerts will take place every day at noon except Saturdays and on Sunday evenings at 6.30 o'clock. The Boston Concert Band, conducted by the well-known Alfonso D'Avino and the smaller Brass Ensemble, Stanley Hassell conducting, will share the series with the Commonwealth Band.

****

So well received was the concert by the Springfield Civic Orchestra at the opening of the Western Massachusetts Music Festival at Greenfield last week that, the Greenfield High School which sponsored the event made plans for a return engagement of this orchestra at the High School auditorium, Wednesday evening, June 1. On that occasion, the orchestra conducted by Milton J. Aronson will be assisted by two youthful guest soloists, Miss Eleanor Ingraham, pianist and Miss Charlotte Abrahamson, soprano, both students at Stoneleigh-Prospect Hill School. When she was only 13 years old, Miss Ingraham was awarded a scholarship in piano by the Elijah Coleman Foundation for Music and Art, and has held that honor for six consecutive years.

****

Just a reminder: Your first opportunity to hear the Federal Music Project's concertized "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" in Metropolitan Boston takes place at Watertown High School Auditorium, Sunday evening (May 22) at 8.15, when A. Buckingham Simson conducts the operas under the sponsorship of the Italian-American Independent League of Watertown. Tickets: 55¢ and 75¢ tax incl.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

June will be ushered in by the Federal Music Project with its first outdoor performances of "Carmen" at St. Mary's Parochial School Grounds, Harvard Street, Brookline on the first day of the month at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and 8.15 in the evening. A. Buckingham Simson will conduct the familiar company of operatic artists, including Frances Perry in the title role at the afternoon performance and Thelma Jo Fisher in the evening. The Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra and State Chorus will participate in this fine concert. Admission in the evening is only 55 cents, and there is a special 25-cent matinee for children.

******

The opera group has a busy season ahead of it. On Sunday, June 5 the entire company travels to Fitchburg where it will present a triple-attraction concert, "Cavalleria Rusticana", "Pagliacci" in the evening and "Carmen" in the afternoon under the sponsorship of Fitchburg Post, No. 4 Italian-American Veterans of the World War. This will take place in the beautiful new million dollar auditorium in Fitchburg High School and will be one of the greatest musical events in the history of the city.

******

Toward the end of the month--on June 23 to be exact--another outdoor concert will be given by the opera group when it makes its first appearance at Manning Bowl, Lynn's beautiful stadium, seating 28,000. On this occasion, Mr. Simson will conduct the singers and orchestra in "Cavalleria" and "Pagliacci", which are fast becoming the favorite operas in the group's repertoire. The Manning Bowl event is sponsored by the Lynn Recreation Committee, and in order that Lynn's music lovers may take advantage of this unusual opportunity to hear outdoor opera, a general admission charge of only 25 cents will be made. The finest amplification and lighting systems will be installed, and despite the size of the stadium, the audience will be able to hear and see well from all parts of the bowl.

******

It is with much pride and pleasure that we tell you that Harry Ellis Dickson, one of the pioneer conductors of Federal Music Orchestras is leaving us to join the Boston Symphony as a violinist. Mr. Dickson, one of our younger conductors, is, in point of service, one of our oldest. He was appointed conductor of the early Boston Civic Orchestra under the ERA regime in 1934. More recently he has presided over the Commonwealth Women's Orchestra. Harry Dickson has been so much a part of Federal Music, that his departure would ordinarily be regrettable were it not for the fact that his talent has been recognized by one of the world's most famous symphony organizations, and he is going forth to greater success. Harry recently became the proud father of another daughter, all of which makes 1938 a banner year for him. To all his good fortune, Federal Music adds its best wishes.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

If you live in or near Lynn your eye may have been attracted to the red and yellow half sheets that have been posted all over the city and its environs, announcing Lynn's first outdoor grand opera in concert form to be presented by the Federal Music Project at Manning Bowl, Lynn, Thursday evening, June 23. The opera concert, which includes performances of Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" and Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be sung in English. This unusual musical attraction is brought to the North Shore by the Lynn Recreation Department. A very moderate admission charge of only 25 cents brings this concert within the reach of all.

******

We have had a number of inquiries as to when we begin our annual series of outdoor concerts at the Brookline Shell, Dean Road. This year, under the sponsorship of the Brookline Musical Society, which has been so active in promoting the summer concerts, we will inaugurate a distinct departure from our usual custom of presenting bands and novelty groups. A cycle of five free symphony concerts by the State Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Alexander Thiede begins Thursday, August 4.

****

The Dean Road concerts will take place every other Thursday until September 1, weather permitting. The series will be one of the most important musical events ever held in Brookline. While present plans are but tentative, it is hoped that several distinguished guest soloists may appear on the programs.

******

Another sign of summer is the opening of the hospital concerts by the Brass Ensemble. This small band, conducted by Stanley Hassell which endeared itself to patients at the Massachusetts General Hospital last summer will begin a new series Sunday afternoon June 5.

******

Perhaps no more appreciative listeners are to be found than the invalids and convalescents that make up the Brass Ensemble's hospital audience. Illness has a way of making the day interminable, and the cheerful music by smiling musicians and their bright instruments is a welcome break in the monotony of hospital routine. Mr. Hassell and the Ensemble will play at the Hospital every Sunday afternoon until September 11.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Last summer among the outstanding musical events of the South Shore summer colony were the concerts by the State Symphony Orchestra at Harbor Theatre, Scituate. The success of these concerts which attracted a large audience of summer residents, has brought a return engagement of Mr. Thiede and his capable musicians to Scituate and they will be heard in at least two midsummer concerts at Harbor Theatre, Sunday evenings, July 31 and August 28. Seldom does any summer resort have the opportunity to hear a full symphony orchestra, and although the Harbor Theatre concerts are more than a month away, the ticket sale has already been launched and is receiving an enthusiastic response. These concerts will be sponsored by the popular Scituate Players, an organization that is as much a part of the summer colony on the South Shore as beach umbrellas and sand pails. The Players are noted for their successful theatrical presentations, and under their patronage the State Symphony Concerts are sure to attract music lovers from all of the surrounding towns.

Again, as in past seasons, the Harvard Summer School students and other music lovers who will spend the vacation period in the city will welcome the Federal Music Project's series of concerts at Sanders Theatre and Paine Memorial Hall, Harvard. A tentative schedule of concerts promises a very interesting series to be given as follows:

July 10	The State Symphony Orchestra at Sanders Theatre
July 17	The State Symphony Orchestra at Sanders Theatre
July 23	Bizet's "Carmen" (concert form) by the State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra, at Sanders Theatre
July 31	Gounod's oratorio "Mors et Vita" by the State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra at Sanders Theatre
August 7	The Madrigal Singers at Paine Hall

DO YOU KNOW THAT

The Music Project's outdoor season is in full swing. While Bostonians are gathering in great numbers around the Parkman Bandstand to hear the Brass Ensemble, the Boston Concert Band or the Commonwealth Band, equally great numbers are attracted to Coggshall Park, Fitchburg, and Forest Park in Springfield.

******

The Fitchburg Orchestra, William Tenho Reivo, conducting, is most frequently heard at Coggshall Park with occasional visits by the Worcester Band, Ernest Walford, conducting, and the Worcester Concert Orchestra, Clayton A. Eaton, conducting.

******

The Forest Park, Springfield, concerts are at Paddle Pond and Marsh's Rest with the Springfield Colored Novelty Orchestra under Clarence Clinton and the combined Hampden County Band, Ralph J. Finch, and Springfield Chorus, John J. Bishop, furnishing the programs.

******

The concert at Coggshall Park, Sunday, June 19, will mark the opening of the Laurel Festival. It will be held on the porch of Stone House with beautiful Mirror Lake as a background. It will be in conjunction with a pageant and crowning of the Queen of the Festival. The musical program for the affair has been arranged by Clayton A. Eaton.

******

Alexander Thiede, popular conductor of our own State Symphony Orchestra, will be guest conductor of the Hartford Symphony Orchestra at Bushnell Park, Hartford, Connecticut, on June 29. This is a return engagement for Conductor Thiede as he made a very successful appearance with this same orchestra last fall.

******

Karl Zeise, 'cellist, who has been heard as guest artist with the State Symphony Orchestra will appear in a like capacity at the same concert with Mr. Thiede.

******

The Teachers' Division of the Federal Music Project, which is doing such splendid work, has recently held two very successful recitals. One at Holbrook Town Hall for pupils in Holbrook, Avon and Randolph, and the other in Lawrence.

******

The largest audience ever to witness an outdoor concert in New England is expected at the 28,000 seat Manning Bowl in Lynn next Thursday evening when the State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra under A. Buckingham Simson offer the two ever popular operas, Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" and Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana". Admission to this concert is only 25 cents.

An idea of the work being done by the Federal Music Project nationally may be gained from the figures issued by National Director, Dr. Nikolai Sokoloff. 123 symphony and concert orchestras, 50 dance orchestras and bands, 71 concert bands, 21 chamber music ensembles and 35 choral and opera groups are busily engaged in summer programs.

******

Noon-hour band concerts, which provide a pleasant interlude in a busy day for so many at our own Boston Common's Parkman Bandstand, have also proven popular at Union Square, San Francisco and historic Independence Square in Philadelphia.

******

Aggregate figures for the summer months of 1936 and 1937, the first two summer seasons of the Federal Music Project, show approximately 27,000,000 persons at 31,271 concerts. Staggering as these totals may appear, the season of 1938 hardly started, already gives indications of surpassing either of the previous two seasons.

******

Opera in concert form, has proven as popular in other large cities as in Boston. Los Angeles, San Diego, Cleveland, Cincinnati, and New York to name a few, have well supported groups.

******

Our neighboring New England states have full seasons facing them. New Hampshire units have 96 programs for the summer including 44 open-air engagements; Rochester, Newfane and other Vermont cities have made plans for series of concerts; Portland and Lewiston, Maine, orchestral units have programs scheduled.

******

This is a good season of the year to start making plans for next fall and winter-it keeps one cool also-organizations, schools, fraternities, etc. that would be interested in a concert or series of concerts by any of the Federal Music Project units should communicate with William Haddon at 25 Huntington Avenue, Boston, the state headquarters, for information in detail.

******

In connection with the above it is very gratifying to the project and, too, it speaks well for the work being done by the units, to have so many requests from last season's sponsors for concerts next fall and winter.

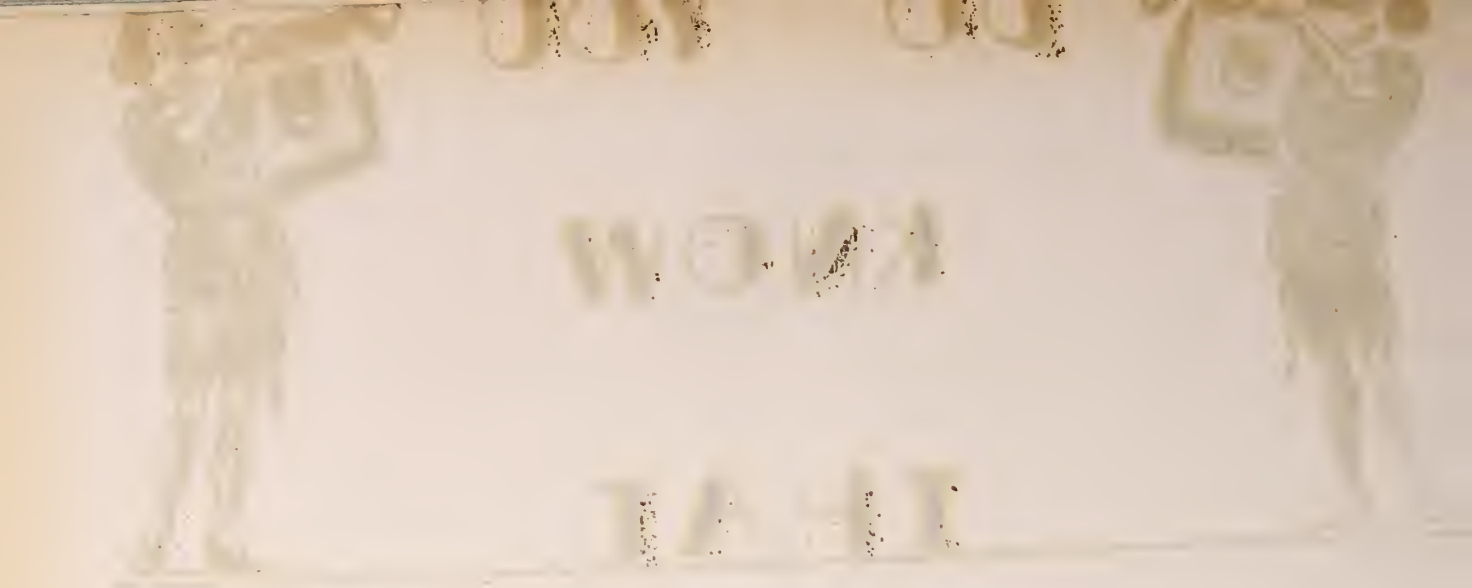

******

A very important and sometimes overlooked function of the project is the work the various bands, orchestras, and choral groups have done in assisting appreciation of music classes in schools throughout the state.

******

Thousands of school children, 603,965, to be exact, at 1,199 school concerts from September, 1936, to May 31, 1938 inclusive have gained a greater and better insight into the beauty and pleasure of fine music through hearing these groups and the careful and painstaking explanations by the conductors of the instrumentation and functions of the component parts of the bands and orchestras. These concerts have aided children to gain a better understanding of music, not alone in their class work, but also of the music heard on the radio and have been enthusiastically acclaimed by school teachers and superintendents.

The concert in the new Lynn Stadium, Manning Bowl, last Thursday was one of the most successful ever presented by the Federal Music Project. Nearly 8000 persons were present to hear the State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra under A. Buckingham Simson, offer "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana".

Manning Bowl is ideal for outdoor concerts. Set in a natural depression, well lighted by floodlights from high towers, with a nearly perfect amplifying system, this huge concrete oval makes a picturesque background for the romantic story of the opera.

While the opera group itself received the most attention, no little credit for the success of the affair is due the Lynn Recreation Department which sponsored the concert and the cooperation of the two Lynn newspapers, the Daily Evening Item and the Telegram-News.

As evidence of the impression the concert made on the North Shore, the following excerpt from a lengthy editorial in the Lynn Item is of interest.

".....as a public offering at a nominal cost there is no doubt as to the extent of the demand for more serious music. Anyone listening to the applause at the announcement that plans were being made to present "Carmen" as soon as possible would know that Lynn has a surprising number of music lovers. The 8000 in attendance was indeed remarkable in consideration of the size of Lynn's population. The Federal Music Project must feel satisfied that its efforts met with such instantaneous and popular approval. Let us hope there will be more of these evenings of delightful music."

And there will be more "evenings of delightful music." Arrangements are already well under way between the Lynn Recreation Department and State Director William Haddon for a series of concerts. It's only a matter of setting dates.

While it is always a thrill to face an audience numbering thousands, weekly, various units play before audiences which in some instances only amount to scant handfuls, but whose appreciation more than makes up for their lack of size.

We refer to the weekly concerts at homes for the aged, hospitals and other institutions of that type. These folks whose lives would be very drab indeed without the visits from the Music Project units, look forward eagerly to the concerts. And the musicians in turn are eager to please and do their utmost to win smiles and applause from these good people whom necessity or infirmity has forced to live the cloistered life of an institution.

The first concert of the summer Harvard series will be held next Sunday, July 10, at Sanders Theatre. There will be four concerts at Sanders Theatre and two at Paine Hall. The first two concerts will be by the State Symphony Orchestra, Alexander Thiede, conducting. Then follow two by the opera group and then the Madrigal Singers with the sixth and last by the American Folk Singers and the String Quartet. This series is an annual affair for Harvard summer school students and their friends, and well worth the attention of the general public. Admission to these concerts is 25 and 40 cents- tickets on sale at the Box Office.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

The first concert of the Harvard Series will be held Sunday night, July 10, at Sanders Theatre with the State Symphony Orchestra, Alexander Thiede conducting, presenting the program.

This concert is the first of six, four at Sanders and two at Paine Hall. Admission to the concerts is 25 and 40 cents at Sanders and 25 cents at Paine Hall.

The Commonwealth Women's Orchestra, with Stanley Hassell conducting, played the first of a weekly series of eight concerts at the Merrymount Shell, Quincy last Thursday to a large and appreciative audience. This unit will also be heard on the Boston Common at the Parkman Bandstand twice weekly as a result of two very successful appearances there last month.

A series of seven Sunday night concerts is scheduled for the Manning Bowl, Lynn, as a tribute to the audience of 8000 which witnessed the first concert at this stadium a few weeks ago.

Three different units will participate in the concerts. The State Symphony Orchestra has three dates, the Modern Rhythm Ensemble, three, and the State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra, one, at which it will present "Carmen" in concert form.

The first of the seven concerts will be by the Modern Rhythm Ensemble on Sunday, July 17. Then follows "Carmen" another appearance of the Modern Rhythm Ensemble, three successive concerts by the State Symphony Orchestra, and the final concert by the Modern Rhythm Ensemble.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

The Music Project is currently engaged in three series of concerts with a fourth starting in the near future.

A series of seven Sunday nights by various units starts at Manning Bowl, Lynn, Sunday, July 17; the second concert in a series of six will be heard the same night at Sanders Theatre, Harvard University; the Commonwealth Women's Orchestra is engaged in a series of eight Thursday night concerts at Merrymount Shell, Quincy.

Next month, on August 4 to be exact, a series of five Thursday night concerts by the State Symphony Orchestra will begin at the Brookline Shell, Dean Road.

The Dean Road Shell was the scene of a very successful series last summer and the Brookline Musical Society decided to sponsor the coming symphony series.

Of course, we are by no means overlooking the various series of concerts held at hospitals and institutions, which are solely for the benefit of the patients.

South Shore music lovers who attended the concert by the State Symphony Orchestra at Harbor Theatre, Scituate, last summer, liked it so well that the State Symphony is returning to Scituate for two engagements on July 31 and August 28, both concerts at the Harbor Theatre under the sponsorship of the Scituate Players.

Stadium commissions and school and park departments in various greater Boston cities are watching with interest the Manning Bowl series. These huge concrete ovals lie idle between football seasons despite the fact that expenses go on. The Music Project has shown that they make ideal settings for concerts and aid materially in paying for the upkeep of the structures.

Committees interested in obtaining complete information regarding dates, etc. may communicate with William Haddon, State Director at 25 Huntington Avenue, Boston.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

The Music Project has done more to popularize outdoor concerts in greater Boston this summer than has ever been done by any musical organization or group of music lovers, in recent years.

Beginning with noonday concerts at the Parkman Bandstand on the Boston Common, now almost a tradition, the scene of the concerts has spread to Lynn, Quincy, Brookline, Fitchburg, Worcester, Springfield, Attleboro, and now Boston College and the City of Malden recreation department at Pearl Street Stadium have completed arrangements for concerts with series contemplated.

"Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be presented at Malden on Thursday, August 11, by the State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra and the same units will sing "Carmen" at Boston College on Tuesday, August 16.

Thousands of persons who rarely attend concerts during the winter season have been attracted by the lure of music under the stars. Indeed if it were possible to gather in one place all the audiences that are present at the various concerts, it would require a stadium almost as large as Harvard's to accommodate them.

The Music Project takes a justifiable pride in the size and number of the audiences attending these concerts. It is not at all unusual to see family groups, mother father and children seated in rapt attention.

It is not too much of a boast to say that the Music Project has definitely made thousands of persons more appreciative of music of real worth. The works of the great masters--symphonies, operas, oratorios--that have stood the test of time because they had real qualities have won new friends and followers.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Three widely diversified concerts will be presented by the Music Project, Sunday night, July 31. The State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra under A. Buckingham Simson will sing Gounod's "Mors et Vita" at Sanders Theatre, Harvard University; the Modern Rhythm Ensemble under Frank Ward will be heard at Manning Bowl, Lynn; State Symphony Orchestra with Alexander Thiede conducting will be at the Harbor Theatre in Scituate.

These three concerts show more plainly than words the varied nature of the Music Project. Three units, numerically but a small portion of the project, embracing such a wide field as popular melodies, formal symphonies and stately oratorio.

Yet even these three concerts do not tell the whole story for nearly every one of the forty-odd units of the project presents programs differing from the other units.

The difference is not merely in the programs presented but an actual difference in the forms of musical expression. A student who took advantage of the opportunity to hear as many of the units as possible would have added a great deal to his education.

The Teachers' Division of the Music Project will shortly begin classes in Chicopee and Holyoke. Instruction is free to any child unable to afford a private teacher. Applications may be obtained at Welfare agencies in those cities or from Ernest C. Kendrick, 436 Dwight Street, Springfield, District Supervisor or directly from William Haddon, State Director at 25 Huntington Avenue, Boston.

Next Thursday, August 4, the State Symphony Orchestra, Alexander Thiede conducting will begin the first of a series of five Thursday night concerts at the Dean Road Shell, Brookline, An outstanding soloist will be guest artist at each of the concerts.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

"There's music in the air
There's music everywhere!"

This has been the Federal Music Project's greatest season for outdoor concerts. With the Manning Bowl series in Lynn at the half-way mark, the "symphonies under the stars" at the Dean Road Shell, Brookline just beginning, and the popular Commonwealth Women's Orchestra programs at Quincy's Merrymount Shell in full swing, music-lovers in this part of the State have a wide range of attractions from which to choose. Practically every type of music is represented in these alfresco programs, not the least of which are the perennial band concerts, as much a part of summer as straw hats and warm weather.

The very busy State Symphony Orchestra under Mr. Thiede's direction finds itself dividing its time between two locations these summer evening. Beginning this Sunday, the group will give a series of three Sunday evening concerts at Manning Bowl. Leonard Bernstein, brilliant young Boston pianist will be soloist, featuring the very popular American classic, "Rhapsody in Blue" by the late George Gershwin. The small admission charge of 15 cents, an unheard of fee for a symphony program brings this concert within the range of all. It begins at 8.30. Having had an auspicious opening at Dean Road last Thursday, the symphony group continues next Thursday with "Opera Night".

This free program will offer orchestral selections from Lohengrin, Carmen, Barber of Seville, Tales of Hoffman, Faust, Hansel and Gretel, Damnation of Faust and Martha. The soloist will be Norma Jean Erdmann, Boston's most popular operatic soprano who will sing the lovely "One Fine Day" from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly". If you are a follower of Federal Music...and, of course you are...you will recall that just two years ago this month, Miss Erdmann made local history when she sang the title role in "Butterfly", in the first government-sponsored opera ever given in this city. Thursday night's Brookline concert is one worth travelling miles to hear. If coming by street car, take any Beacon - Reservoir car from Park Street, and get off at Dean Road. The Shell is but a few steps away from the corner of Dean Road and Beacon Street.

If you live in the vicinity of the gateway to the South Shore, the free concert, Thursday night, by the Commonwealth Women's Orchestra at Merrymount Shell, Quincy will prove a pleasant evening's entertainment. This group, the only feminine symphony orchestra in the East is conducted by Stanley Hassell, who has prepared a typical light summer program of music for Thursday. The works of Puccini, Goldmark, Strauss and the contemporary Irving Berlin will be played.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Thursday will be "American Composers' Night" at the Dean Road Shell, Brookline. The State Symphony Orchestra under Mr. Thiede's direction will present an unusual program that includes the music of three local composers; Paul Hastings Allen of Brookline, Margaret Starr McLain and Bertram Colter, both of Boston. Mr. Colter is associated with the Federal Music Project as a field supervisor, but he finds time, between his multitudinous duties to experiment in modern, stream-lined music that fairly breathes of 20th century. Youth will be the keynote of this concert, for the soloist of the evening is young Leonard Bernstein, brilliant pianist, just barely into his twenties and a senior at Harvard. He will play his own colorful interpretaion of the beloved George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue". Ferde Grofe's familiar "Mississippi Suite" will also be a feature of this splendid program. Don't miss it.

******

Sunday night, the State Symphony continues its outdoor concerts at Manning Bowl, Lynn. A heavy rain storm depleted last Sunday's performance, but a record audience is expected for the coming program which is designated as "Opera Night". Selections from the most popular grand operas will be played by the Orchestra. Norma Jean Erdmann, operatic soprano will be guest soloist.

******

Out in Newton at Boston College the brawny varsity football squad staged a whirlwind "clean-up" session last week, when they took over the huge stadium, not for a thrilling game, but in preparation for the Federal Music Project's presentation of "Carmen" under College sponsorship Tuesday night. Temporarily abandoning their pigskin, and tackle dummies for rakes, brooms and paint brushes, the boys went to work with the proverbial vim and vigor painting and repairing bleacher seats, and grandstand. Noted for their prowess on the gridiron, the husky fellows who two or three months from now will be making touchdowns to the applause of thousands in that very stadium, took over their housecleaning duties with the same enthusiasm that they "hold that line" for Alma Mater. The team was led in this particular skirmish by Captain Bill Flynn. Anyone may attend Tuesday night's concert, for the stadium holds about 12,000. There is a small admission charge of 25 cents, and free parking.

******

If you live in the vicinity of Hollis Playground, Braintree, why not stroll over there Wednesday night and hear an exceptionally fine concert by the Brass Ensemble, Federal Music's miniature brass band under the baton of its new conductor, Aaron Shapiro. Mr. Shapiro takes over the duties of Stanley Hassell, who in turn will devote himself to the Commonwealth Women's Orchestra. The concert is free and sponsored by Braintree WPA Recreation Dept.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

The most interesting event on the Federal Music Calendar during the coming week --and everyone, from State Director down to the Office Boy is quite excited about it--is the sound projection demonstration in which the State Symphony Orchestra will participate at the acoustic shell on the Charles River Esplanade, Tuesday night. This concert will serve as a sort of "ring out the old, ring in the new", for it marks the end of the present shell that has resounded with so much magnificent music the past several seasons. Within a week or two after our concert the faithful old shell will be dismantled to make way for a new and more elaborate structure to be erected through the beneficence of the Edward Hatch Memorial Fund.

******

The purpose of Tuesday night's concert is to determine the value of sound reinforcement with a view to its possible installation in the new shell. We are distinctly pleased that a Federal Music unit was selected for this important experiment, for it marks another milestone in Boston's musical progress, and that progress has been dotted conspicuously with Federal Music achievements.

******

To make the concert a gala occasion two soloists will be featured with the Orchestra. Norma Jean Erdmann will sing the Jewel Song from "Faust", and Raphael Silverman, young violinist, and Harvard Graduate School student will play. Here, indeed, is a musical event to be remembered by Bostonians for many years to come. It is certainly an auspicious and most appropriate "swan song" for the old Esplanade Shell. The concert, of course, is open to the public, free of charge. We urge you not to miss it.

In case you are unfamiliar with the locality, the shell is situated on the beautiful Storrow Memorial Embankment on Charles River at the foot of Mount Vernon Street in downtown Boston. The concert begins at 8.15.

******

This is an age of the Novel and Unusual, not to mention Surprising. Traditions have been thrown to the four winds, and music has been brought to people in the strangest places. We were not a bit startled therefore to learn that there'll be grand opera at Wonderland Park, Revere where a few short weeks ago those lean lightning streaks, the greyhounds, were pursuing, and never catching, the elusive rabbit. Yes, Federal Music has invaded the dog racing track, which has closed its season. We shall present under the sponsorship of St. Anthony's Church, Revere, a splendid outdoor performance of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" Thursday, September 8. Wonderland Park is one of the finest stadiums in this part of the country. Perfectly equipped for outdoor night events, it is an ideal setting for any type of entertainment. It is this spirit of initiative and enterprise that has brought operas and symphonies to people who sit on bleachers instead of plush seats.

******

Even the stagehands go about whistling and humming the Toreador Song, for we think we've established some sort of record in performances of "Carmen". Since the season began "Carmen" has been presented 28 times. Next Sunday night, we'll hear it at Everett Stadium, Chelsea Street, Everett. This performance will be sponsored by Mayor Frank E. Lewis' Special Welfare Fund. Peter Bodge, whose years at the Metropolitan Theatre made him a Boston personality, will conduct.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Our cover design this week is a picture of Coggshall Park in Fitchburg, where the Federal Music Project has had one of its most successful outdoor concert series of the season. The Fitchburg Orchestra, conducted by Tenho William Reivo has become a familiar Sunday attraction at this Worcester County beauty spot. Park Superintendent, Charles F. Sweeney, tells us pridefully that Coggshall's mirror-like pond is the largest natural goldfish harbor in the world. The fish, originally placed in the pond to destroy harmful insect larvae have become so tame that they are the pets of all who visit the park. Coggshall, set in a frame of stately pines and graceful birches has had its natural loveliness enhanced by landscaping, beautification and other improvements accomplished through WPA funds and labor. During the coming week, Mr. Reivo will conduct the orchestra in concerts Sunday evening (Aug. 28) and Wednesday evening(Aug. 31) at 7.15 P.M.

****

With the approach of Labor Day and the usual thought that "summer is over",Federal Music looks back on a very busy and highly successful outdoor season,with an even busier, and, we hope, equally successful Fall in prospect. The outdoor season is far from over yet, however. Taking advantage of our mild New England September, several open-air concerts are scheduled.

****

Boston College Stadium, which two weeks ago resounded to the dramatic music of Bizet's "Carmen" will be the scene of two concerts by the State Symphony Orchestra Alexander Thiede conducting. The first program will take place Sunday evening, September 11, to be followed by another, September 18.

****

"Carmen" continues to be our outstanding operatic attraction. Peter T. Bodge, for many years the maestro of Boston's largest theatre, the Metropolitan,will conduct the opera at Riverside Park,Medford,Wednesday evening, September 7. As we told you last week, "Pagliacci"and"Cavalleria" move into Wonderland Park greyhound racing stadium, September 8and will mark the first time that such a musical performance has been given in the arena that most persons associate with the excited shouts of the race track enthusiasts.

****

Just prior to the exodus from the summer resorts, Alexander Thiede will conduct the State Symphony in the final concert of the season at the Harbor Theatre,Scituate, Sunday night. This concert is sponsored by the well known and very active Scituate Players, and the house is sold out.

****

On Thursday night the fifth and last of the Dean Road Shell concerts in Brookline will feature the State Symphony in an all request program, with Miss Portia DiGiorgio, dramatic soprano as soloist.Likewise Miss DiGiorgio will sing at the last of the Manning Bowl concerts in Lynn,Wednesday night.

****

The enthusiasm evinced by Federal Music Project followers in our operatic concerts has convinced Project officials that this type of entertainment is definitely in demand. We are now preparing Verdi's "Rigoletto" and Gounod's"Faust" for Fall and Winter presentation. There will be more oratorios, too,and, of course, the very best of programs by the State Symphony. All in all, 1938-1939 has all the evidences of a banner season for Massachusetts' government-sponsored music.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Our "honor city" this week is Springfield of which the civic center is pictured on our cover. Springfield on the east bank of the Connecticut River in Western Massachusetts had its early beginnings in 1636 when a small group of settlers under the leadership of William Pynchon laid the foundation of a little village that was destined to become a thriving town and later a metropolis. Springfield has passed through the vicissitudes that have marked the nation's growth. Laid almost level in King Philip's wars, the city rose from its ashes to even greater glory. Shays' Rebellion, the establishment of an early United States Armory; A hotbed of the Abolitionist movement; John Brown, of the famous "John Brown's Body"; the underground railway of Civil War days; the rise of the manufacturing and industrial era.. all are closely associated with Springfield.

******

"The Springfield Municipal Group (our cover design) on the north side of the Square consists of an office and court building, an auditorium, and a 300-foot campanile, with an illuminated clock and a carillon of 12 bells. It was designed by Pell and Corbett and dedicated in 1913. The view from the observatory platform offers a view of the city against a background of mountain peaks. The group is an impressive civic monument, imposing in its proportions, its classic detail and in identical Corinthian porticoes which dignify the front of both buildings". Springfield enjoys extensive activity by the Federal Music Project. This area, designated as District Six, in our six divisional districts, has five units: The Springfield Civic Orchestra; Hampden County Band and Springfield Chorus; Chicopee Orchestra and Springfield Colored Novelty Orchestra. The latter two groups specialize in popular music of the day and are much in demand for informal gatherings and socials.

The symphony group and band are prime favorites in the public schools of Springfield, West Springfield, Holyoke, Westfield, Ludlow and Longmeadow. The Band and Chorus which work together have brought many hours of entertainment and happiness to patients in such hospitals as the Springfield City Infirmary and Chicopee Infirmary at Chicopee Falls. These groups also appear regularly at the House of the Good Shepherd, City Home, Home for the Aged in Springfield, and the Holyoke City Home.

From Massachusetts, A Guide to its Places and People" written and compiled by the Federal Writers' Project of the Works Progress Administration of Massachusetts.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Between the Connecticut River and Mt.Tom lies holyoke, which is our honor city this week. Holyoke's municipal center is pictured on our cover,and of it the compilers of "Massachusetts, A Guide to its Places and People" have written:

"The City Hall, a striking building with a great granite tower, is an object of civic pride."

Holyoke has many other objects of civic pride besides its beautiful city hall. Its great paper mills,waterworks, gas and electric works, (the latter of which are municipally owned)have long been the outstanding factors of Holyoke's progress. In 1745, the community was settled. It was incorporated as a town in 1850 and as a city in 1875. Today, due to the growth of industry the city had a cosmopolitan aspect, for the sturdy people of Europe settled in Holyoke during its early manufacturing boom. Descendants of Irish settlers comprise more than one third the population,which is also largely made up of Polish, French-Canadian, Scotch, German, Scandinavian and Greek.

With such a heterogeneous group, it is natural to expect that cultural pursuits especially music,are emphasized in Holyoke. The city fosters several private musical organizations, a small museum of natural history, an art gallery,and the Holyoke League of Arts and Crafts. One of the city's most prized possessions is the Belle Skinner Collection of musical instruments and manuscripts, including a Chinese instrument more than six centuries old.

Holyoke is included in the Federal Music Project's District Six, which embraces Hampden County, with central offices at nearby Springfield. The concerts by the Springfield Symphony Orchestra and the Hampden County Band in the public schools of Holyoke are a vital part of the community service the Federal Music Project endeavors to give.

Our final outdoor admission concert this year will be an interesting program by the State Symphony Orchestra at Boston College Stadium, University Heights next Sunday night (September 18).This concert is one of two sponsored by the College, the first to take place tonight (Sunday, Sept. 11) Alexander Thiede will conduct both concerts. Norma Jean Erdmann, soprano will be guest soloist for tonight's program. Tickets, 25¢

Ushering in the indoor season we present the Medford Band, in a program sponsored by the Columbus Club of Revere at Abraham Lincoln School, that city, Sunday evening, September 25. Charles Panetta will conduct the unit, with Joseph Antonelli as soloist. Tickets, 35¢ Seldom do you have the opportunity of hearing an indoor band concert. For those music lovers whose preferences run to stirring grandiose music with plenty of brass, this concert will prove interesting and entertaining.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Four years after Boston was settled, the little village of Attleboro, now a small, but thriving city, came into being. Our cover design this week pictures the bandstand at Capron Park, Attleboro's beauty spot and gathering place for the interesting cross section that makes up the city's population of 21,835 people.

William Blackstone, recluse, free-thinker and self-imposed exile from England moved from Boston and became Attleboro's first settler in 1634. Despite Blackstone's antipathy toward England's "lord bishops", the gently-sloped, meadowed country in which he chose to settle was named "Attleboro" after an ancient town in his native England.

Up to 1694, Attleboro was merely a village, but in that year it was incorporated as a town. However, it is, strictly speaking a 20th century city, and was incorporated as such in 1914. In 1780, Attleboro laid the foundations of its very lucrative jewelry manufacturing, which to this day is its chief concern. Known as "the hub of the jewelry industry in America", Attleboro has 20 or 30 houses that make trinkets and silverware. Besides this industry, there also are bleaching and dyeing, optical goods, automobile accessories, pressed steel, cotton machinery, textile fabrics and paper box factories located in the city and its environs.

These industries employ thousands of skilled workers, many who trace their ancestry back to the sturdy followers of Mr. Blackstone; others, whose birth or extraction originated farther afield. They have helped to make Attleboro the comfortable, live city it is today. To Capron Park, one of the prettiest parks in this part of the state, come these people for rest, recreation, and the typical park band concert, which is such an integral part of a smaller community's life.

The Federal Music Project, through its District Four has provided many hours of delightful music in the Capron Park concerts. The Brockton Band, conducted by Arthur S. Kendrew is a familiar unit on the park bandstand from July to autumn. The Taunton Orchestra, conducted by John F. Murphy frequently plays for patients at the Attleboro Sanatorium.

It seems only yesterday that we were telling you of the opening of the summer concert season at the Parkman Bandstand on Boston Common, and now, it is time to announce the closing. On September 23, weather permitting, we shall present the Commonwealth Band, conducted by William Barrington-Sargent in its final outdoor appearance of the year. This will be a noon-day program.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Our cover design pictures the bandstand at South Common in Lowell, the "honor city" this week. Here, all summer long the Lawrence-Lowell Band has entertained Lowell's music lovers with weekly outdoor concerts. Lowell is part of District One in the Federal Music Project's six divisional areas.

The city is noted all over the world as a textile center. The foundations of this great industry, upon which the city based its early growth, began at the turn of the 18th century. The community, however, was settled as early as 1653, at which time it was an insignificant part of the town of Chelmsford. As the 18th century dawned, Francis Cabot Lowell (a name that was to stand, eventually for the New England tradition) introduced a practical power loom into the village destined to bear his name. This man, known as the originator of American cotton manufacturing, had studied textile methods in England. The possibilities of the Merrimack River and the various canals that criss-cross the community to this day, convinced Mr. Lowell and his associates that the town could be a thriving manufacturing center.

Lowell has had a long and brilliant history. By 1826 it had been incorporated as a city, and its successful textile industry had attracted thousands of skilled workers from cotton manufacturing centers of the world. English and Irish craftsmen swarmed into the community, and today, much of Lowell's population comprises the descendents of these people, although the French-Canadian element is large and thriving. Lowell reached its great industrial peak by 1924.

Known as the "Spindle City" Lowell stood pre-eminent as a manufacturing center until ten years ago, when like many other industrial cities, economic conditions altered its status. From textiles, the city broadened its scope to include other types of manufacture.

The South Common, where the Federal Music band concerts take place, is a 22-acre recreational center attractively located and popular as a gathering spot. Not far from South Common is the birthplace of the famous artist, Whistler. The city also boasts the Lowell Textile Institute, said to be the largest co-educational institution of its kind in the world, and the only one offering instruction in textile processes.

Besides its summer concerts at South Common, the Federal Music Project has a busy year-round schedule of musical programs in Lowell's institutions, such as, public and parochial schools; homes for the aged and infirm and hospitals.

Lowell brings to mind the fact that in its sister city, Lawrence, our popular opera concert, "Carmen" will be presented as the inaugural attraction at the beautiful new St. Mary's Auditorium next Sunday evening (October 2). A. Bucking - ham Simson will conduct.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Like the man biting the dog, a hurricane in New England is news of the first order, and although more than a week has passed since the Big Wind, what happened and how it happened are still lively conversational topics. As in last year's flood disaster, the Federal Music Project was right on the spot with a helping hand. Tragically, the Springfield area was one of the hardest hit, both by the hurricane and subsequent floods. The morning of September 22, when the storm had passed and devastation confronted Springfield's shocked population, all Federal Music rehearsals and concerts were cancelled and the units sent to the high schools and other centers harboring the stricken refugees to entertain and bolster the spirits and morale of a bewildered and dazed people. The cheery concerts, served as a sort of musical sand bag to prop the sagging spirits of thousands of homeless, injured and otherwise unfortunate victims. Concerts were given at Commercial, Technical and Classical High Schools, where, according to District Supervisor, Ernest C. Kendrick, from 750 to 1100 refugees per school were sheltered. The units that took part in these memorable concerts were the Springfield Civic Orchestra, the Springfield Colored Novelty Orchestra, the Chicopee Orchestra, Hampden County Band and Springfield Chorus. They played tirelessly and enthusiastically, and stood by until evacution of refugees was complete and their services were no longer required. There was no lionizing, no decorations and no eulogies for these musicians. But they "made music all the day" and so willingly and eagerly that Springfield will remember them, when the events of a terrifying week dim to a memory.

Our cover design this week features Bela Pratt's impressive memorial to the New Bedford Whalers, once a hardy race of men, now barely a memory of a colorful bygone era when "a dead whale or a stove boat" was something to reckon with. We have chosen Bela Pratt's memorial as being typical of this week's honor city because more than anything else it is redolent of what this grand old seaport represented in its heydey. Executed in granite, the statue stands on the north side of the Public Library lawn. It was dedicated in 1913. New Bedford was settled in 1640, incorporated as a town in 1787, and as a city in 1847, at which time it was at the height of its glory. The world knew New Bedford as one of the greatest whaling cities of the 19th century. Ten thousand seamen manned its picturesque ships in 1845, and the tales of Herman Melville, and his "Moby Dick" were part of the city's background. Whale oil was a popular commodity for illuminating purposes, but the discovery of petroleum in 1857, together with the growing scarcity of whales, sounded the death knell of the whaling industry in New Bedford. The city became a busy textile center and has progressed as such to this day. But such a far cry from New Bedford's original industry has failed to remove the salty, nautical atmosphere of the old town, and today you may wander down the winding streets and fancy you hear the ghostly shouts of the old time whaling men: "Thar she blows!" and "Where Away?".

The Federal Music Project serves New Bedford through its District Four. During the summer, the Bristol County Band plays at Ashley Park, Buttonwood Park, the Municipal Bathing Beach and other outdoor spots. In the winter, the public and parochial schools have weekly concerts.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Newton, the city of beautiful residences, wide, tree-shaded avenues, peaceful atmosphere of leisured living, is this week's "honor city". Situated near enough to the hustle and bustle of Boston to be considered a suburb, Newton with its 14 small villages, known locally as "The Newtons", is, nevertheless a city in its own right, and has been such since 1873. Before that time, it had been an independent town since 1679, 40 years after its first settlement. Newton, like Rome, is built on seven hills. Its early history is interwoven with the preaching crusade of John Eliot, who spread the doctrine of Christianity among the Indians at Nonantum in 1646. So great was Eliot's influence on the red skinned natives, that his proselytism was commemorated on the first city seal. Farming was the early occupation of the Newtonians. Later this changed to small manufacturing. Almost since its beginning, however, Newton has been a city of homes, especially comfortable and even palatial homes. Horace Mann and Nathaniel Hawthorne once occupied an old Newton house wherein, the latter wrote his famous "Blithedale Romance". Later, Ralph Waldo Emerson and his mother occupied a rambling farmhouse at Newton Upper Falls. It was here that Emerson remarked of the community: "It is calm as eternity and will give you a lively idea of the same".

Newton, today, however, is a smart, enterprising community. It was one of the first towns outside of Boston to foster the Federal Music Project. The Newton Orchestra is an "old" unit in point of service. This group is familiar to Newton residents for its summer concerts at the nearby Auburndale Shell, and for its winter programs in the Newton Public Schools, and surrounding communities, such as Natick and Framingham. Next Week, on Tuesday morning, the orchestra, conducted by Robert Kelley will give a concert at Framingham Memorial High School.

Federal Music's fall and winter concert season has begun in earnest. On October 14, the Composers' Forum-Laboratory inaugurates its third year, as a unique movement toward bridging the gap between the composer and the "man in the street". If you ever wondered just how a piece of good music is conceived and written, of just what processes surround it before it reaches your ears in the form of lovely melody, an evening spent with the Composers' Forum-Laboratory will prove a revelation. This year all meetings will take place at Faelten Hall, 30 Huntington Avenue, Boston on the second Friday of each month (Excepting next month's session, which will be held November 18). Meetings begin punctually at 8.15 and, of course, are open to the public without charge. This season, Supervisor Dean Winslow Hanscom plans to devote part of each program to the chronological progress of American music. The first meeting will feature the 18th century Pennsylvania Moravian music of David Moritz Michael and John Anters. In contrast, the contemporary composers, Alan Scott Hovaness and Edmund Severn will be represented. There is nothing in Boston quite like the Composers' Forum-Laboratory. A visit will be something to remember.

On October 26, we shall be very busy, indeed! The American Folk Singers make two appearances that day: in the afternoon at the Girls' Latin School, Boston, under the sponsorship of the Boston Teachers' College, and in the evening at the A.M.E. Zion Church, Boston, sponsored by the Pre-Rally Fund. The State Symphony Orchestra begins its series of afternoon concerts in Local High Schools with a program sponsored by Jamaica Plain High in the school auditorium. Many miles away, in Ludlow, the Mothers' Club of that town will sponsor a concert by the Springfield Civic Orchestra at Ludlow High School Auditorium.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Our cover depicts the very new city hall of a very old city, Medford. This week's honor city is so widely surrounded by historical associations, that a brief description can hardly do justice to it. Between the years 1630-35, the village was settled. It was incorporated as a town in 1684 and as a city in 1892. Today, Medford is a quiet, dignified suburb of Boston, with substantial looking homes and well ordered streets and avenues. Once upon a time, however, tall ships were built and launched here to be known on the seven seas as "Medford-built", and the potent Medford rum became as world famous as Boston's own sacred cod. Thatcher Magoun, a young ship-worker from Charlestown, laid the foundations of Medford's great ship-building enterprise about the year 1802, and with the emigration of many New Englanders to the golden land of California, Medford's ships gained a reputation for fast clipper ship passage to the West Coast. After the Civil War and with the advent of steamships, Medford's shipbuilding died. The last Medford-built ship was launched in 1873. The city was included in Paul Revere's famous itinerary, and it is closely identified with the American Revolution and the birth of the young nation. Today, Tufts College, founded in 1852, is Medford's outstanding landmark. This fine co-educational institution, known throughout the East, is closely identified with Federal Music, for it has sponsored many concerts by our units, and Professor Leo Rich Lewis of the College Music Department has shown a lively interest in the Project, having appeared often as guest on the Composers' Forum-Laboratory programs.

Medford is served through District Two of the Federal Music Project. Many fine concerts are given in the High Schools and institutions by the Medford Band and other units. The City Hall was formally dedicated September 11, 1937. It was built through a partial allotment of funds from the Works Progress Administration; grading and landscaping was done by WPA labor. The building stands on property purchased by the city from the far-seeing Thatcher Magoun in 1866. It is Colonial in style, reminiscent of the Christopher Wren period of English architecture.

October 26 will be one of the busiest days Federal Music has had in several months. Four major sponsored concerts are scheduled for that day, with our splendid negro choir, the American Folk Singers doing double duty. In the afternoon, at 3 o'clock, Thomas Johnson will lead the singers in a program sponsored by the Boston Teachers' College at Girls' Latin School, Boston, and at 8.15 in the evening, the group will appear at the Boston A.M.E. Zion Church under the sponsorship of the church's trustees. At 2.30 in the afternoon, Alexander Thiede and the State Symphony Orchestra will inaugurate the first of a series of music appreciation symphony concerts in public high schools, at the Jamaica Plain High School. Up in the western part of the state, the Ludlow Mothers' Club will sponsor the Springfield Civic Orchestra, conducted by Milton Aronson, at Ludlow High School Auditorium. There is a small admission charge for all of these concerts.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

This week's "honor city" is Worcester the "Heart of the Commonwealth" and justly named. Both geographically and industrially, Worcester is a mid-state metropolis, the second largest city in Massachusetts. Worcester, named for the old English town was first settled in 1673, but Queen Anne's War in 1702 drove the little band of settlers from the community. In 1713, a war refugee, Jonas Rice returned and built a home, the site of which is, today, an historical landmark. Worcester was incorporated as a full fledged town in 1780; as a city in 1848.

Industrially, this city is known throughout the world. Its wire mills, machine and tool plants, leather heeling mills, rug looms, grinding manufacturers, envelope factories and nearly a thousand lesser industrial units are famous. Worcester also is noted as the birthplace of that unique cacophonous appendage of every circus parade, the steam calliope. This was invented by J. C. Stoddard in 1856, and he drove his shrieking vehicle from Worcester to Fitchburg much to the startled consternation of the citizenry.

Culturally, Worcester ranks high. It boasts six colleges, including Clark University, Holy Cross College and the Worcester Polytechnic Institute. Its concert halls have resounded to the lovely voices of Adelina Patti and Jenney Lind, the dramatic offerings of Sarah Bernhardt, Fanny Kemble, Edwin Booth and Charlotte Cushman. Here, Anton Rubenstein played his immortal compositions, and Charles Dickens lectured; here P. T. Barnum exhibited the first elephant ever seen in America; here, Abraham Lincoln's quiet oratory enthralled the people; here, too, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Stephen Douglass and John Brown delivered their impassioned Abolitionist pleas, and here the great English man of letters, Matthew Arnold complained because he had been served "cold oysters" for luncheon.

Worcester's Mechanics Hall was, for many years the scene of the city's annual Music Festival, important social and musical event that had brought to the city some of the country's outstanding concert artists. For the past few years the Music Festival has been held in the beautiful new Municipal War Memorial Auditorium, built in 1933. The City Hall, pictured on our cover was built in 1898. Its style is Italian Renaissance, with Florentine campanile towers 205 feet high. On the sidewalk, in front of the City Hall is embedded a bronze star, marking the spot where, on July 14, 1776, Isaiah Thomas read, for the first time to a New England audience, the Declaration of Independence.

With the traditions of its annual Music Festival imbued in them it is natural to expect that Worcester's people are inclined toward good music and things musical. The Federal Music Project operates in this area through its District Five, which includes Fitchburg and other nearby communities. The Worcester Concert Orchestra, Worcester Band and Fitchburg Orchestra are included in the city's government-sponsored music. On November 17, the Worcester Concert and Fitchburg Orchestras will join the Fitchburg Finnish Singers, in a concert at Fitchburg City Hall. The Worcester units have done much to foster music appreciation in Worcester's public schools, and have done admirable work in hospitals and similar institutions.

Good news for Boston music lovers. We resume our Museum of Fine Arts concerts on Sunday afternoon, November 6, when the State Symphony Orchestra under Alexander Thiede's direction, plays a one-hour program. Like last year's oratorios, the concerts are sponsored by the Museum's music appreciaion program and are open to the public, free of charge.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Salem, the "historic treasure house of New England"is our honor city this week. Our cover pictures the famous House of Seven Gables, old landmark immortalized by Nathaniel Hawthorne,and one of Salem's principal sites of interest. The rambling, weather-beaten old house was probably build in about 1668, but it has undergone many restorations, the latest of which was in 1910.

Salem, city of glorious history, magnificent architecture, romantic background of colorful seafaring days, has one blot on its otherwise proud escutcheon -- its painful memories of witchcraft, when, because of the bigoted, superstitious zeal of a fear-ridden citizenry, a score of harmless old townswomen were hanged on Gallows Hill as "witches". Today, bearing out Shakespeare's wisdom that "the evil that men do lives after them; the good is oft interred with their bones", Salem is called the "Witch City". Its black era, which was short-lived, has survived in popular imagination its splendid, golden years as a city of culture and literature. Prosperous merchant princes who sailed around the Horn have dimmed into the tapestry-like pattern that is Salem's history.

The village was settled in 1626 and, like Boston, was incorporated as a town in 1630. For the past 102 years, it has been a full-fledged City. Today, besides its historical associations, Salem is a mecca for architects and artists. Its beautiful old Colonial doorways, designed by the genius of Samuel McIntire have been copied all over the world. Numerous historic shrines and museums invite the visitor to Salem. It is one of the most popular tourist spots on the Atlantic seaboard. Like New Bedford, however, its hey-dey of seafaring has long since passed, and today Salem bows to modern progress. It manufactures, among other things, radio tubes, a typical symbol of the 20th century.

Salem's Old Town Hall is the "home office" for the Federal Music Project's District One, which embraces Lynn, Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell and the vicinity. The Essex County Symphony Orchestra which will be heard at Turn Hall, Lawrence, Sunday, October 30, is a District One unit. During the summer, the Salem Band is a popular attraction at Salem Willows, favorite recreation spot of the North Shore.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Brockton, "City of Shoes" is our honor city this week. Brockton, when it was part of Bridgewater,was settled in 1700. The site of the village had been purchased from the Indians by Miles Standish and John Alden in 1649 for the equivalent of $30. From such a small beginning began a great city's fortune that was to run into millions. Always foremost in patriotic causes, Brockton took a prominent part in Shay's Rebellion, and later, the Abolitionist sentiments of William Lloyd Garrison.

The invention of the McKay Sewing Machine which made possible the sewing together of uppers and soles of shoes, instead of the old-fashioned pegging, brought an industrial boom to the town, and there was a great influx of foreign-born labor, which helped to build the city to its manufacturing peak. Shoe factories enjoyed unparalleled prosperity during the Civil War, when government orders for army footwear made Brockton the largest shoe producing city in America. It is said that half the Union Army was shod by Brockton.

Concerning the city, William Cullen Bryant, great American litterateur wrote: "The whole place resounds,rather rattles, with the machinery of shoe shops, which turn out millions of shoes, not one of which, I am told, is sold in the place".

Bryant lived in Brockton, in a house now occupied by a relative. It is a simple, unpainted frame dwelling,open to visitors on permit.Here the poet is said to have written part of his immortal"To a Waterfowl" and "Yellow Violet".

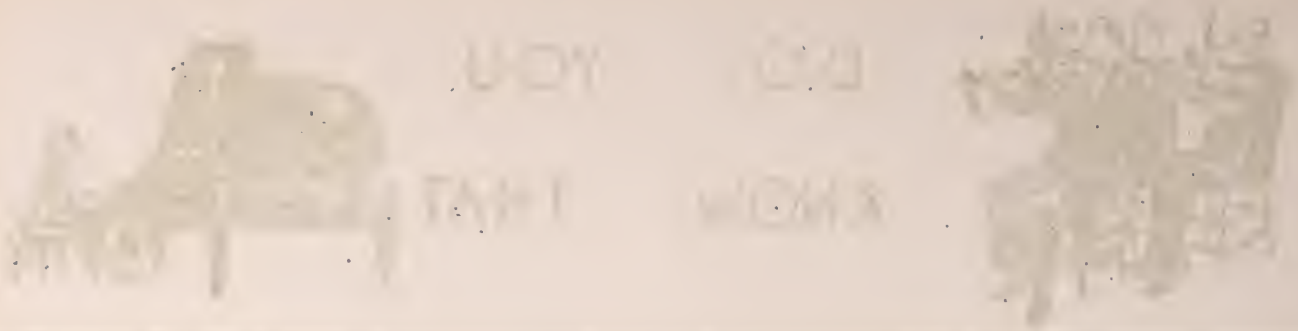

One of Brockton's greatest attractions is its annual Fair,which for generations has been a popular early autumn event for New Englanders.

Brockton is part of Federal Music Project's District Four. The Brockton Band is the city's government-sponsored music unit. This group, with other units that work out of the Fall River headquarters, give numerous concerts in Brockton's public schools and municipal recreation spots, throughout the year.

The opening free symphony by the State Symphony Orchestra at the Museum of Fine Arts, Sunday afternoon, November 6, at 2.30 o'clock will feature the following program:

The Giant Fugue.....Bach
Scherzo.....Dukas
(From "Sorcerer's Apprentice")
Symphony No. 1 in C Minor.....Brahms

Because of Armistice Day,the second meeting of the Composers' Forum-Laboratory, has been advanced a week to Friday evening, November 18, at the usual meeting place--Faelten Hall. The 19th century works of Francis Hopkinson and William Billings will contrast with the contemporary compositions of Frederick Shepherd Converse and Otto Luening. Music for the program will be performed by the Boston Brass Quartet, conducted by Walter Smith, Jr.; the Forum String Quartet and the Madrigal Singers, the latter two, well-known Federal Music units. These concert-meetings are open to the public without charge, and begin at 8.15 promptly.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

This week we celebrate Thanksgiving Day, the day that has been set aside since the time of the Pilgrim Fathers to give thanks for the blessings which the Lord has bestowed upon us. The Pilgrims gave thanks because at last their sun was shining----they were making new homes in the new world after a great physical and mental struggle. The future looked indeed bright. We of the Music Project also pause to give thanks---for the many friends we have made during the past twelve months and for the interest and enthusiasm with which our concerts have been and are received throughout the State. The future looks indeed bright.

With the school season well under way it might be apropos to call attention to the remarkable progress being made in appreciation of music in the schools as a result of the concerts by the various units. The conductors explain to the pupils the various component parts of the orchestra, the relationship of the instruments to each other and then through the medium of several representative numbers just how composers carry out their ideas. With the excellent bands and orchestras at their command, it is possible to make clear even to those pupils with no previous interest in music, the beauty and importance of symphonic music.

The response of the audiences, even the most juvenile, is truly amazing.

BOSTON

The Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Earl Weidner, will be heard at the Museum of Fine Arts, Huntington Avenue, Boston, Sunday afternoon, November 20 at 2.30 o'clock. There will be no admission charge for the concert which is part of the Museum's appreciation of music program.

PORTLAND, MAINE

The State Symphony Orchestra, Alexander Thiede conducting, with Major John A. Warner of New York as guest pianist, will be heard at the City Hall Auditorium, Monday evening, November 21. DO YOU KNOW THAT

Quincy is our "honor city" this week. Historical Quincy, home of the father and son presidents John and John Quincy Adams, John Hancock best remembered of all "Singers", Charles Francis Adams, the Great Ambassador who represented our country at the Court of St. James during the trying period of the Civil War, and countless other names closely linked with our growth, past and present.

A modern up-to-date city of nearly 77,000 persons, Quincy can well be said to have furnished the foundation of our country. From its granite quarries have come the stone for untold numbers of buildings, public and private. The development of methods of quarrying is a tribute to Quincy ingenuity. First wooden wedges, soaked with water to make them swell and split the stone, then iron wedges, and today saws, driven by motors. King's Chapel in Boston was the first important building constructed of Quincy granite. Since then it has been first choice of builders all over the land with examples in the Custom Houses in New Orleans, New York and San Francisco.
The first railway in the country hauled stone cut for the Bunker Hill Monument three miles to the waterfront.

Shipbuilding is also one of Quincy's outstanding industries. From the time the early settlers built small craft for cod fishing in Massachusetts Bay to the modern bustling Fore River Plant of the Bethlehem Corporation, Quincy ships and builders have spread their fame over the seven seas.

The Crane Memorial Library pictured on the cover was named in honor of Thomas Crane, a Quincy stone cutter who went to New York as a young man, and soon rose to a prominent place in the life of that metropolis where his skill in his trade stood him in good stead. He became an outstanding builder and many buildings still stand to this day as monuments to his ability. The library was dedicated in 1882 and a wing added in 1907.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Whitman is our "honor city" this week. Originally, in Colonial times, known as "Little Comfort", the term might well describe the town today. An industrial town of single homes, it combines all the best features of an enterprising community together with the advantages of being primarily a "home town".

Although Whitman had its genesis in 1693 around Hersey's saw mill, it was for many years known as South Abington, receiving its present name in May, 1886, a name derived from a family prominent in the town's history.

One of Whitman's earliest industries was the manufacture of tacks, in fact one of the first industries in the colonies, and a still thriving industry. Shoe factories were early attracted to the town, drawn by the type of skilled, steady employees available. "Whitman made" on shoes, found the world over, is a mark which in its own field ranks with "Sterling" on silver. The McKay stitcher, which revolutionized the manufacture of shoes, was the development of an invention of Lyman N. Blake, a superintendant at the factory of Davis Gurney.

At Colonel Aaron Hobart's foundry, cannon were made for the Continental Army. White oak timbers cut in the vicinity were used in the construction of the frigate "Constitution". The first company of volunteers to respond to President Lincoln's call was from the then South Abington. During the World War Whitman citizens carried on the glorious traditions of their forefathers.

Among other notable achievements by sons of Whitman, the Edes Bridge, spanning the mighty Mississippi at St. Louis, an engineering marvel, was designed by Elmer Corthell.

Ranking well among Whitman organizations is the Kiwanis Club. In the nine years of its existence it has been a leader in every movement to promote the civic welfare of the town. Its charitable work has been noteworthy, particularly on behalf of the underprivileged children. The Kiwanis Club will sponsor a presentation of the opera "Faust" in concert form by the Federal Music Project's State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra at the Town Hall, on January 11, 1939.

BOURNE

The Epworth League of the Methodist Church will sponsor the American Folk Singers of the Federal Music Project, Thomas Johnson conducting, at the High School Auditorium, Friday evening, December 9th, at 8.00 P.M.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Needham is our "honor city" this week. The Town of Needham came into being in 1711 as the result of a petition to Colonial Governor Joseph Dudley by a group of citizens of Dedham who asked for a separate town "by reason of their Remote Living from ye place of ye publique Worship of God in our Own Town".

In its early history Needham appeared destined to become an industrial town; the falls on the Charles River supplying plentiful water power for cotton and paper mills for which the town was noted.

The official seal of the Town of Needham which is featured on the cover was designed by the board of selectmen, assisted by George Kuhn Clarke (for whose comprehensive history of the town we are indebted for much of our material) and Emery Grover in 1890.

Today it is one of Boston's favorite suburbs and rightly so, for tons of Needham soil was moved into Boston in the ten years following 1859 to fill in the Back Bay.

Wellesley College was originally in Needham, being established under the name of Wellesley Female Seminary on March 17, 1870 by Henry Fowle Durant. The school was in the section of the town known as West Needham, later, 1881, to become the present town of Wellesley.

Many New England towns lay claim to having been visited by George Washington but Needham has positive proof of such an occurrence----Washington's own diary records a visit on November 6, 1789.

Among those who have spread Needham's fame far and wide are Dr. William Thomas Green Morton, whose discovery of anaesthesia has eased the suffering of untold millions; Reverend Abijah R. Baker and Mrs. Baker whose books formed the basis of many a student's education in the middle 80's.

President Abraham Lincoln told of teaching from Mr. Baker's Sunday School books.

Needham has always been a music-loving community. Early records tell of bands being formed by various citizens of the town. Flagg's Band was an active part of the community life. The Highland Cornet Band and others were prominent, and even further back Moses Mann, the younger, organized the Boston Brass Band, which enjoyed great popularity.

Needham music lovers, of the present day, will have an opportunity of hearing a Federal Music Project presentation of Handel's "MESSIAH", Sunday afternoon, December 11, at 3.30 P.M. in the Town Hall. This famed oratorio which has rightly been described as "Christianity's Greatest Message in Ageless Music" will be presented by the State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra with A. Buckingham Simson conducting. It is being sponsored by the Needham Teachers' Club.

LAWRENCE

The fifth in the current series of 'Pop' concerts sponsored by the Lawrence Turnverein will be held at Turn Hall, Sunday evening, December 11. The Essex County Symphony Orchestra, Mario Carmosino conducting, and the Southland Singers under the direction of Lycurgus Lockman, will share the program.

JAMAICA PLAIN

Appreciation of music concert by the State Symphony Orchestra, Alexander Thiede conducting, Wednesday afternoon, December 14, at 2.30 in the Jamaica Plain High School. This is the final of a series of three.

DISTRICT NOTES

DISTRICT ONE

The Essex County Symphony Orchestra combined with the Madrigal Singers to present one of the most successful concerts ever held in Lynn recently, under the sponsorship of St. Mary's Alumnae Association.

DISTRICT TWO

Viola Smith of the 9th grade and William Chapman a 7th grader, are the two proudest youngsters in Norwood Junior High School. At a concert by the Newton Orchestra at the school, they were "guest conductors" during the playing of Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever".

DISTRICT THREE

Some of the most interesting comment anent the appreciation of music concerts in the schools came to light recently following a concert by the State Symphony Orchestra at Boston Latin School. Many of the listeners wrote their opinion of the concert to Mr. Mahan of the Latin School faculty who was in charge of the affair. The boys showed a keen interest and understanding, especially notable was the reaction of those attending a symphony concert for the first time. So favorable was the comment that other concerts are contemplated in the near future.

DISTRICT FOUR

A most enthusiastic audience at the M.E. Church in Bourne heard the American Folk Singers a week ago. The Epworth League sponsored the concert and was immensely pleased both by the results of the concert and by the work of this group.

Mr. Haddon, State Director, was the guest speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club in Whitman. The Kiwanis Club will sponsor "Faust" at the Whitman Town Hall, on January 11.

DISTRICT FIVE

The Marlboro Enterprise reports an "evening of great enjoyment" by the audience at the concert by the Worcester Concert Orchestra for the Marlboro Teachers'Association.

DISTRICT SIX

President Thomas H. Londergan of the MacDowell Male Choir of Springfield, announces the final public rehearsal of "MESSIAH" will be held Wednesday evening, December 14. The Springfield Civic Orchestra is assisting this well known choral group in its presentation of Handel's famed oratorio at the Municipal Auditorium, Wednesday evening, December 21. President Londergan also stated in the Springfield newspapers that he was "greatly pleased" by the progress being shown in the rehearsals.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Watertown is our "honor city" this week. It is difficult to believe in this day and age that Watertown was once the western frontier of the Massachusetts Bay Colony but so it was when founded in 1630 by John Oldham, Reverend George Phillips and Sir Richard Saltonstall, ancestor of our governor-elect Leverett Saltonstall.

The Watertown settlers, unlike the majority of colonists in the Bay Colony were agriculturists and the place was selected because the Indians had great success in cultivating gardens there.

Watertown is noted as the home of Perkins Institution and Massachusetts School for the Blind, probably the most famous institution of its type in the world. Incidentally the 174th anniversary of the man, whose bequest made the institution possible, Thomas H. Perkins, a Boston merchant, was celebrated last week.

The Gothic tower that makes Perkins Institution a landmark is pictured on our cover.

Watertown is also the site of the United States Arsenal, established in 1816. During the Civil War most of the munitions for the northern troops were fashioned here.

Among the long list of distinguished sons and daughters of Watertown the name of Benjamin Robbins Curtis, associate justice of the United States Supreme Court stands out. He filed a dissenting opinion in the Dred Scott Case, that had such a bearing on slavery.

Watertown is today a thriving community with a nice balance between industries and homes and still clinging to the independence of thought and action that inspired its founders.

****

The Federal Music Project, through its State Director, William Haddon, extends the"Season's Greetings" to all its friends.

At this time of the year, when the Spirit of Christmas inspires the giving of gifts the thought comes to mind that the greatest of gifts is friendship--for without friends we should not find this life very pleasant.

We of the Music Project know well the meaning of friendship. Without the encouragement--and criticism--of friends and well wishers, the Music Project would have found the road a great deal rougher. In the three years of its existence, there have been many occasions when a kindly word from a friend changed the outlook completely.

But friendship is nurtured by friendship and we of the Music Project offer our gift most humbly to all lovers of music with the hope that it brings happiness not only during the holiday season but throughout the year.

We dedicate this issue of our weekly bulletin to our friends and in the words of Dickens' Tiny Tim, "God Bless Us, Everyone".

District Notes

DISTRICT ONE

One of the features of the Pre-Christmas Party for children given annually at the Paramount Theatre of Haverhill was the special program of music by the Haverhill-Newburyport Band, Paul T. Giles conducting. More than 2000 children filled the theatre to overflowing.

DISTRICT TWO

From the Needham Chronicle following a performance of MESSIAH by the State Chorus and Commonwealth Symphony Orchestra---"Chorus, orchestra and soloists shared with the brilliant conductor in the prolonged applause which signified the appreciation of the work presented with so clear an enunciation and perfect precision and with all its beauty of orchestral accompaniment and blended voices. The Teachers' Club is to be congratulated in giving Needham the opportunity to hear this famous oratorio which was a fitting prelude to the Christmas season."

DISTRICT THREE

In days of yore Madrigal Singers entertained weary travelers in the village inns. In like manner our Madrigal Singers toured the city Christmas Eve serenaded folks far from their home firesides in various hostelries of the city. The Christmas Eve celebration on Boston Common climaxed by the lighting of the huge tree was enlivened by the American Folk Singers, Brass Ensemble, and Commonwealth Band. These three units and the Madrigal Singers were sponsored by the Citizens' Public Celebrations Committee.

DISTRICT FOUR

From the New Bedford Mercury: "The manner in which they responded to the leader's (Mr. Nelson) baton, the tone shading and ease with which they met every change of tempo and volume, reflected credit on musicians and leader". The concert was by the Bristol County Band, assisted by a string quartet and Mr. Joseph Antonelli, tenor.

DISTRICT FIVE

The Worcester Concert Orchestra, Clayton A. Eaton conducting, and the Southland Singers under the direction of Lycurgus Lockman will be heard at North Brookfield Town Hall, Tuesday evening, January 3. The concert is being sponsored by the North Brookfield Women's Club.

DISTRICT SIX

The Springfield Civic Orchestra assisted greatly in two presentations of Handel's MESSIAH during the past week. On Monday in combination with the Holyoke Choral Society the orchestra was at Soldiers' Memorial Auditorium, Holyoke and on Wednesday, together with the MacDowell Male Choir of Springfield the oratorio was offered at Municipal Auditorium, Springfield.

This Schedule Subject to Revision

Following our annual custom, we present a page of well-known carols.

HARK! THE HERALD ANGELS SING

Hark! the herald angels sing:
Glory to the new born King;
Peace on earth, and mercy mild,
God and sinners reconciled!
Joyful, all ye nations, rise,
Join the triumph of the skies;
With the angelic host proclaim
Christ is born in Bethlehem.
Hark! the herald angels sing,
Glory to the new born King. Amen

O COME ALL YE FAITHFUL

O come all ye faithful,
Joyful and triumphant
O come ye, O come ye
To Bethlehem;
Come and behold Him,
Born the King of Angels;
O come let us adore Him,
O come let us adore Him,
O come let us adore Him,
Christ the Lord. Amen

IT CAME UPON THE MIDNIGHT CLEAR

It came upon the midnight clear,
That glorious song of old,
From angels bending near to earth,
To touch their harps of gold.
Peace on the earth, good will to men
From heaven's all gracious King,
The world in solemn stillness lay
To hear the angels sing.

O LITTLE TOWN OF BETHLEHEM

O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie.
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting light,
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

SILENT NIGHT

Silent Night, Holy Night
All is calm, all is bright.
'Round yon Virgin Mother and Child
Holy Infant so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace,
Sleep in heavenly peac.

Silent Night, Holy Night
Shepherds quake at the sight!
Glories stream from heaven afar,
Heavenly hosts sing Alleluia
Christ the Saviour is born,
Christ the Saviour is born.

GOD REST YOU, MERRY GENTLEMEN

God rest you merry Gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay,
Remember Christ our Saviour
Was born on Christmas Day.
To save us all from Satan's pow'r
When we were gone astray.

O, tidings of comfort and Joy
Comfort and Joy,
O, tidings of comfort and Joy.
